Christmas Cease-Fire Is Begun in Viet Nam

Communists Will Keep Truce for 12 Hours, Vow No Offensive Actions

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The armed might of America and its allies in Viet Nam was put under wraps today to start a 30-hour Christmas cease-fire. The Communists said they would observe the truce for 12 hours.

The truce orders went to infantrymen in the jungles, to Air Force units that had been striking in both North and South Viet Nam and to 7th Fleet carriers plying the South China Sea in support of the ballooning war effort.

The truce went into effect at 6 p.m., which was 5 a.m. Eastern Standard Time.

The Communist Viet Cong announced three times on their radio today that they would undertake no offensive action or acts of terrorism from Christmas Eve, one hour after the Allied cease-fire started, until 7 a.m. Saturday, 17 hours before the U.S.-South Vietnamese truce period ends.

The Viet Cong had offered their 12-hour truce in a broadcast Dec. 7. The Americans and the South Vietnamese countered with their longer cease-fire order earlier this week.

It remained to be seen if the truce worked. But around the world there were expressions of hope that it would be extended after Christmas and would pave the way to peace negotiations.

All American and Allied units were on the alert and had orders to react sharply in self-defense. The American cease-fire was confined only to a prohibition against initiating any new offensive actions. Disengagements from conflict or defense against any obvious threat were clearly within the discretion of field commanders obliged to protect and preserve their men.

All branches of the Allied forces were keyed up, however, to observe what happens at the end of the Viet Cong moratorium.

um while the American truce still was to be in effect for another 17 hours.

Hair-Line Decisions

Officials conceded this might call for some split-second hair-line decisions.

As of midnight Christmas, however, the U.S. forces will be free to resume "normal operation," a senior Army spokesman said.

"We shall resume normal operations at 2400 hours Dec. 25 unless we are forced to do so before that," the officer said.

While the Communists repeated their announcement of a 12-hour truce, neither North Viet Nam's Hanoi radio nor the Viet Cong radio made any mention of the longer period proclaimed by the other side.

U.S. officials in Washington expected the truce to hold for the first 12 hours. They hoped the Communists would prolong it until Christmas midnight. But they believed the war would resume in full violence after that.

Bloody 24 Hours

Officials said the 24 hours leading up to the truce hour were as bloody as ever.

U.S. B52s from Guam dropped their bomb loads at dawn today 30 miles south of Saigon, continuing the softening up of suspected Viet Cong hideouts.

Communist guerrillas launched a heavy mortar attack during the night against Lac Son, about 30 miles south of Da Nang, and overran two of its outlying posts. They inflicted heavy casualties on the defenders, but the main post held out.

South Vietnamese officers reported 100 Viet Cong bodies in the area after artillery and planes came to the aid of the post. The Viet Cong were reported withdrawing at daybreak.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces claimed 172 Viet Cong killed in three other operations Thursday in the central highlands. One American wounded and light Vietnamese casualties were reported.

Fire Rockets

Firing rockets and machine guns, helicopters of the 1st Air Cavalry Division made repeated attacks in the Phu Cat area, 12 miles northwest of Wui Nhon.

Roads Reported Slippery, Slushy

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin roads in the area north of a line from Dubuque, Iowa to Fond du Lac had slippery stretches along with slushy conditions today after Thursday's night rain and snow.

The State Highway Department said that roads south of the line were wet but not slippery.

The department said that additional snow is predicted throughout the state and advised motorists to be prepared for worsening driving conditions.

As the Christian world prepared today to observe Christmas, war and tension once more marred the celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

In Viet Nam, both the United States and its allies on one side and the Communists on the other announced the start of a Christmas truce—30 hours on the American side and 12 on the Communist. But the 24 hours before were as bloody as ever, and U.S. officials expected the war to resume in full violence after midnight Christmas.

India and Pakistan stood entrenched in hostile positions along their border, deadlocked in the Kashmir dispute. India also confronted the menace of Communist China, whose border troops have been involved in recent shooting incidents with Indian patrols.

Dominican Revolt

Unrest and fear still stalked the streets of Santo Domingo in the wake of last April's revolt in the Dominican Republic.

In Africa, black-ruled nations kept up demands that Britain invade Rhodesia and crush the white minority regime. The British, who limited their reaction to economic sanctions, are worried that the tensions may burst into a race war.

But, as always, there were prayers and hopes for peace.

Pope Paul VI in his annual Christmas broadcast appealed for peace negotiations in Viet Nam.

In Viet Nam, Francis Cardinal Spellman flew by helicopter to bring Yuletide greetings to troops of the U.S. Army 1st Division.

Throughout South Viet Nam, U.S. troops planned parties for Vietnamese children around their encampments. Americans at home had sent vast stores of toys, clothes

Exert Greater Impact

Pope's Words Intentionally Dealt in General Terms

By GERALD T. MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI did not mention any country or belligerents in calling for "just and sincere negotiations to restore order and friendship" in his annual Christmas message Thursday night, but he left no doubt he had Viet Nam in mind.

The spiritual leader of the world's half-billion Roman Catholics often does not use such specifics in his statements.

Several considerations induce him to speak in general terms.

It is felt at the Vatican that by using specific references sparingly, the pontiff can exert far greater impact on occasions when he feels that a precise and blunt reference is needed.

Last Sunday

He referred to Viet Nam by name when he called for a Christmas truce last Sunday. The papacy strives for neutrality in political disputes. It tries to avoid any impression of favoring or opposing one side on political grounds.

The Vatican does not want to give any side in a dispute any propaganda opportunities to claim Vatican support, whether moral or political, by seizing on names the Pope might voice.

If there should be any doubts about what or whom the Pope means in some of his speeches, Vatican sources can usually be counted on to spell it out privately.

These considerations are reflected in the Pope's Christmas message.

First Good

"Peace is, in fact, the first and chief good of any society," he said. "It is based on justice, freedom and order; it opens the way to every other value in human life."

"And so now, at this very moment, we are making a new plea for peace — and this, not simply because peace is a good thing in itself, but also because it is a good which is in danger today."

"Fresh schemes, which the tragic experiences of the last war had given rise to, are now joined by old and deep-rooted nationalistic tendencies, along with newer ideologies of subversion and domination."

Human Brotherhood

"Arms, ever more powerful and dreadful, become, as it were, the only guarantee of a peace, to the detriment of a sense of justice and human brotherhood among peoples."

"No one ought to set about disturbing the peace of others by means of underhanded schemes and contrived disorder. No one ought to force his neighbor, and today we are all neighbors, to resort to armed defense. And no one ought to shirk just and sincere negotiation to restore order and friendship."

Road Conditions Hazardous as Yule Traffic Toll Grows

Bus Accident on Icy Oregon Mountain Highway Kills 12

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Millions of motorists heading for the highways today in the first part of the extended Christmas weekend were warned of hazardous driving conditions in many areas.

Traffic accidents in the early hours of the holiday period killed at least 80 persons, including 12 in a Greyhound bus which went off an icy highway north of Medford, in southern Oregon.

The count of traffic deaths started at 6 p.m. (local time) Thursday. The National Safety Council estimated that at the end of the 78-hour holiday period at midnight Sunday between 560 and 660 persons may die in traffic accidents.

Over Embankment

A state police officer at Medford said the bus went over an embankment on Interstate 5, going over a ditch and fence. Thirty persons were reported injured. The bus was en route from Spokane, Wash., to San Francisco, and had stopped at Portland.

The council terms this Christmas weekend the most dangerous holiday period of any year.

Knowles Asks Lovell to Come To Wisconsin

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles, in a written request to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, requested that Gemini 7 pilot James A. Lovell visit his home state of Wisconsin in January or February.

The governor, in his letter to James E. Webb, NASA administrator, said, "The people of Wisconsin are most anxious for an opportunity to display their high regard for Capt. Lovell, personally, and for the whole NASA team."

Lovell, who attended a Milwaukee high school, still has family ties in Wisconsin.

Stormy, wet weather, with snow, rain and gusty winds, swept across wide areas in the Western half of the nation today.

Traffic deaths during last year's three-day Christmas holiday totaled 578. The record for a three-day Christmas period is 609 set in 1955. The highest toll for any Christmas, or any holiday, was 706 in a four-day Yuletide period.

Administration Source

Tax Hike Decision Not Yet Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite recurring rumbles of a 1966 tax boost to pay for the Viet Nam buildup, an authoritative government source said today that no such decision has been made—even tentatively.

Other administration officials said their private judgment was that President Johnson is unlikely to ask for higher taxes and that Congress—in an election year—would be even less likely to enact them.

None of the sources would be quoted by name, since the question is strictly up to the President. But at least one of the sources could have an advisory voice in the decision.

This source said published reports on the likelihood of a tax increase are "definitely premature." The White House itself also used the "premature" label when similar forecasts were made a few weeks ago; a spokesman said no serious study was being given the proposal.

Important Objection

Officials said an important objection to a tax increase, even a temporary one, is the grave possibility that it could topple the five-year business expansion into a recession.

The alternative—if big deficits and their inflationary consequences are to be avoided—is a deep cutback in civilian spending, including sharp cutbacks in Johnson's own "Great Society" programs.

There are many indications that the President has chosen the latter course. Reports from various agencies indicate that Johnson is demanding deeper cuts than ever before in planned outlays for space, health, welfare and the lower-priority programs of the defense establishment.

Held in Check

While it is doubtful that such savings can come close to matching the prospective multi-billion-dollar increase in spending on the Vietnamese war, some officials believe that price pressures nevertheless can be held in reasonable check.

Meantime, officials hopes remain alive that a negotiated cease-fire or settlement of the Vietnamese fighting can be brought about in time to permit a cutback in the planned American commitment of men and money.

Bell Will Toll for All Players

This would be a noisy world to live in if a bell rang every time we made a mistake. Most of us would have to wear earmuffs permanently, especially at the bridge table. For example, the bell would toll in the hand shown today.

South won the first trick with the ace of clubs, drew two rounds of trumps and led a low diamond.

West won with the nine of diamonds and led the eight of hearts through dummy. Declarer put up dummy's ten and won with the queen when East played the jack.

South continued with the ace of diamonds and a low diamond, losing again to West. Back came another heart, and East took two heart tricks to defeat the contract.

Did you hear the bell ring? Who made the mistake—and when?

Early Mistake

The bell rang for South when he played the ace of clubs at the first trick. The correct play is to let East win the first trick.

East returns a diamond, and South puts up the ace and cashes the ace of clubs to discard a diamond from dummy. Then South gives up a diamond.

West can lead just one heart through dummy. South wins with the queen of hearts, ruffs a diamond in dummy and draws trumps with the ace and king. His last diamond is good, so he discards a heart from dummy on it, thus losing only one club, one diamond and one heart instead of two diamonds and two hearts.

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S A J 10 9 7 6, H K 10 2, D 7 6 2, C 4. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades. Since you have 8 points in high cards, you know that the combined count is 24 to 26 points. Your six-card suit and your singleton should make up for any slight deficiency in high cards.

Heart-y Handshake

In a loveliness rating, the grace of little gestures can't be over-estimated. An everyday gesture like shaking hands can signal winsome qualities or the lack thereof.

More's the pity, when a woman has warmth in her heart toward others, but does not know how to show it. She wants to express her good will, but she greets you with a deadpan face and a deadfish handshake.

Why girls and women offer limp fingertips is a mystery. Perhaps it is a hangover from finicky Victorian modes and manners. For sure, the effect is too nice-Nelly in our times.

This is not to say that your smile should be a gusher or your handshake a crusher. If only a woman would clasp your hand firmly and smile with her eyes as well as her lips — you'd get the message.

For a greeting that spells out grace and graciousness, give this handshake a try: Lead with

Heat Snaps Screw Hold In Wood

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I would like to remove the drawer-pull hardware from an antique chest of drawers so I can do a good refinishing job. But the rusty old screws are so stiff the screwdriver tip began to tear the groove in the screw head. I don't like the prospect of having to drill those screws out, so I'd like to know if you have a suggestion.

A: Carefully heat the screw head with the tip of a soldering iron. A soldering gun is even better because the tip is smaller, so there's less chance of scorching the surrounding wood. The heat apparently breaks the bond cementing wood and metal, and you'll find the screw will then submit easily to the screwdriver. This isn't confined to rusty screws; any stubborn screw will say "uncle" when you apply the heat.

Q: What is a good preserving finish for driftwood? I would like to make a lamp stand and base from a nice piece I recently brought home from the Virgin Islands.

A: As far as the wood itself is concerned, no real preserving treatment is usually needed. The sea, sun and sand have usually done that job very well. But if you'd like an additional sheen, possibly a sleeker surface all over, first carefully and thoroughly brush it clean and free from sand. Rub down any rough spots with steel wool. Then spray with clear plastic, allowing time for thorough drying between coats.

Q: When we shifted our combination windows from screens to the storm set-up, it was quite a job. I had to tap the catches with a hammer to make them budge, and the sliding was difficult. Recently I tried to open both lower windows to get at a window box, and they wouldn't budge. What can I do?

A: Glad to say, this is not difficult. Just about every hardware store and supermarket will have on hand "slide-easy" types of dry lubricants in spray cans. These are made particularly to loosen accumulations of dust and city soot from catches and channels in these combination windows. With a little patience, you'll find they'll work easily in a short time. To preserve your finger nails and temper, periodically treat your windows with this spray lubricant. This will keep them in easy-sliding operation. (A Bell-McClure Syndicate Feature) appear to hear when he's spoken to. He seems to enjoy being alone, although I have to admit that he does occasionally play nicely with his step-brother who's the same age. He's in the first grade and brings home good grades. He does very fine art work, but he likes to draw dinosaurs and he always uses the dark colors. I understand people who are depressed like dark colors.

His stepmother has had charge of him for the last two years and is very kind and tries to bring him out of his dreamworld. I kept him during the interval of motherlessness. Mrs. D.O.

Don't go overboard on interpreting as signs of delayed mourning, his interest in ancient monsters and his liking for dark colors. More important indications are his grades in school, way of playing with friends, and his daily patterns. Does he eat well? sleep soundly? take his fair turn? act in a reasonable way about chores and keeping clean? All that's healthy. Or is he fussy and restless and preoccupied with strange rituals and habits? These are signs of trouble.

If he shows such signs of underlying emotional problems, he needs help in bringing out his hidden feelings. Remember, though, that most children with emotional conflicts are reacting to the way they're being treated right here and now—they usually aren't bound up in unexpressed grief over the loss of a parent years earlier.

'Most Beautiful' Christmas Gift an Adopted Son

The wrapping wasn't very bright for a Christmas present, and it arrived about two months early.

But it is the brightest, finest, most beautiful Christmas present a man ever received.

It is a son, an adopted baby boy, a bright and glittering Christmas star to light the lives of my wife and me.

In an area like this where large families are commonplace, a child is an everyday thing, a blessing surely, but often a burden. At any rate, nothing to get very excited about.

But to a couple which has been childless through the years

This story was written by a newly-adoptive father, who prefers not to disclose his identity. It speaks the spirit of Christmas, and of the warmth that envelopes the world on this holiday Eve.

most friends were building families, a child is a wondrous thing. These friends often looked enviously at our unencumbered lives and apparently didn't see the longing in our faces to trade our "freedom."

Not The Same

At any rate, it has ended. We no longer "come and go as you please." We have something to do with "all that money."

It is wonderful. Even to be awakened at two o'clock in the morning to feed him is a joy.

It was last spring when we decided to begin adoption proceedings. It was late September when we brought our son home.

Preparing for his arrival was part of the joy. We had not specified to the agency — the Appleton Apostolate — whether we wanted a girl or a boy. We didn't care. If we were having a baby the way most people do, we decided, we would have no choice.

Expected a Girl

So we prepared for the arrival — we had no idea when — of a girl.

After six years of marriage, six years of hoping, one would think a couple would have decided on names. We hadn't. After a number of hard-fought battles, I won. Our daughter would be Ann in spite of my wife's protests that it was "too plain."

When our son arrived, I proudly agreed that he should have my name.

Hours were spent acquiring baby things — cribs, bathing equipment, an unpainted dresser that had to be finished.

We waited until we had been approved by the Apostolate as prospective parents before we started shopping for a crib. By this time we knew it would not be long before we would have a child, and there was a detectable urgency as we examined baby beds in an Appleton store.

I saw the saleslady eyeing my wife's trim figure.

"Is this to be a gift?" the woman said.

"No," we said.

No Answer

She paused. "Ah... how soon... ah... oh, never mind. It isn't very important anyway," she stammered.

It was fun to only smile and let her wonder.

The first things we bought were a package of diapers, a blanket or two, a rattle, a box of baby powder and a couple of tiny nightshirts. By the time our son arrived, these things were just about worn out from being examined, re-examined, touched, squeezed, shaken and smelled.

Finally, on a Friday morning, the priest who is our case worker called. "I have a baby for you, if you are still interested," he said.

We were still interested, to be sure. The priest told us some of our son-to-be's history and asked, "any questions?"

One Question

"Only, 'When?'" I said.

"You can come and see him Monday and maybe Tuesday or Wednesday you can take him home, if you like him." Father said.

"Monday? Can't it be any sooner?"

It couldn't. It was a hectic, anxious weekend with a lot of "what-ifs" (What if he doesn't like us? What if he cries?) and "I-wonders" (I wonder if they'll let us take him home right away. I wonder why we couldn't see him until Monday.)

Monday. An exciting Monday. Nervousness, lots of it. An almost unending drive to Green Bay to the Apostolate office there. "Come in. Sit down. Wait." Wait an interminable three minutes. "Come into this office. Sit down." All cordial, all friendly. The baby's background is explained thoroughly, but is only half heard. Finally, "I'll get the baby," the case worker says.

In Her Arms

The child is beautiful. The case worker hands him to my wife who holds our son cautiously, gently. They are beautiful together, the most beautiful thing I have ever seen. My wife's eyes sparkle as never before.

They leave us alone with the baby, and we are awkward and uneasy, but unbelievably happy. "Say hello to your daddy," my wife said.

Our son, then just six weeks old, was widely aware of us. But I was swollen with joy and pride.

The case workers returned, and again asked, "Any questions?" Again we said, "When?"

"Tomorrow"

Endless Trip

It was a very long ride back to Appleton, punctuated by a consequential conversation forgotten as it was spoken. It was followed by a half-eaten supper and a restless night.

We were ready at eight o'clock the next morning to make our one o'clock appointment in Green Bay. Our apartment was ready for our son's arrival. The equipment and clothing and things we bought had been augmented by happy grandparents and kind friends.

Taking twice as many blankets as we would need, we headed north. We went through the same polite sit-down-and-wait. Then the office again. And the baby. All the formalities were explained again. We would be a foster home for six months and be visited once a month by a case worker. Then we could legally make him our son. In every other respect, he already was our son.

We were given feeding and care instructions, wrapped him in our too-many blankets and started home. Never before have I driven more carefully, although I had a difficult time keeping my eyes off my family and on the road.

We weren't in the house ten minutes when our son had performed all the tricks he knew. He cried because his diaper needed changing, he cried because he was hungry. He "burped," and he fell asleep in the arms of his new mother.

Easy to Know

"Are you happy?" I asked my wife. I didn't have to ask for I could see the happiness in her eyes.

"Are you?" she returned, I suspect knowing the same of me.

"I only have one regret," I said.

"What?" she said.

"That we didn't do it sooner. And I've decided our son's going to have some sisters and brothers. We'll apply to get Ann in the spring."

"How many brothers and sisters do you think he's going to have?" my wife asked warily.

"I don't know," I said, "but I think I'm going to keep you barefoot in the winter and adopting in the summer."

Since then, our son has gone through that first-day routine many times. He is not part of our life, he is the basis of it.

Wonder, Joy

At night I still look at him sleeping in his crib and shamelessly tears come to my eyes. And I cannot help but think the clean but dingy clothes he wore when we first brought him home were not unlike the swaddling clothes in which a baby long ago was wrapped.

They say That Baby was the adopted son of a carpenter named Joseph. Would that That Baby would look favorably on another adoptive father and help him raise a fine son.

Parents' World

Signs May, May Not Indicate Grief Over Mother's Death

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: Do you suppose the shock of his mother's death when he was three years old can account for my grandson's behavior? He sits and stares into space for an hour sometimes, and he doesn't some criticism and resentment over the ways you and his stepmother may have failed to give him good care and enough loving attention. Also, it's likely he feels angry about having a stepbrother and about sharing his father with a new mother.

To help him express his feelings, tell him how you feel and what you believe he's feeling. Letting him see your own unhappiness over the death of his mother, talking with him about his feelings over her death, and letting him share your grief in tears and anger are likely to help him come to terms with his mourning, so he can put it aside and take up full-scale living again.

DEAR DR. JONES: I'm beginning to realize that I should have tried to learn more about raising children when my two children were young. It would have been easier to prevent troubles when my boy was 3 and my girl was 1 than it probably is to solve problems that I caused by the mistakes I made then.

Now my children are 9 and 7. I'm doing my best to cope with my son's meanness to his sister and her constant provocations to him, but it still continues whenever they're together.

Is there any way I can stop the constant bickering? Mrs. K. A.

There's no difference between solution and prevention, however old the children are. So don't feel bad about whatever you may have failed to do to stop their bickering before now—you can still easily recover the battle and win the war.

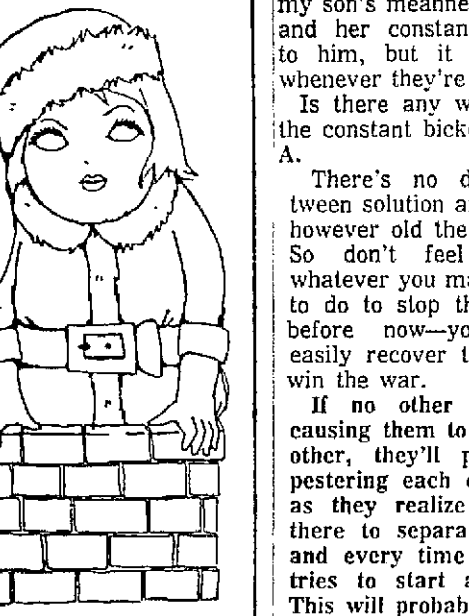

If no other tensions are causing them to pick on each other, they'll probably stop pestering each other as soon as they realize you're right there to separate them each and every time one of them tries to start an argument. This will probably take a few weeks, only.

Don't punish them or tell them they ought to love each other and be nice to each other. Just stick to telling them, over and over, "If you can't play together without teasing and being mean, you

Flat-Chested Girls Complain Over Nothing, Reader Says

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If I read one more letter from a girl who complains because she has nothing to put in her brassiere I think I will scream. My problem is just the opposite and believe me I would gladly change places with any of those "Flat Florences."

I've had this problem ever since I was 13. I used to walk down the school corridors carrying my books in front of me—and slouch-shouldered at that. By the time I was 16 I wouldn't have dared to wear a sweater or a blouse cut on the bias. It was almost impossible to find a dress that would fit. It was always four sizes too tight on top or three sizes too large across the waist and hips.

My bras had to be custom made, with special padding under the straps—and even then the straps dug into my shoulders and caused a great deal of discomfort. In addition to the physical discomfort, I am the target for cheap jokes.

I hope you will publish this letter, Ann. It may silence the moaners and groaners who feel inferior because they are under-endowed. Thank you. —Big Bertha (My High School Nickname.)

If you haven't discussed this problem with your physician, you should do so. There is help for you. Meantime, I hope your letter will help to bring our dimension-wacky readers to their senses.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a strong letter about mental hospitals. Now, if you have the nerve, please print something about the way former mental patients are treated when they try to obtain employment.

Landers

I was never violent, dangerous or destructive. My problem was severe depression. Periodically I'd lose interest in everything. I had no desire to get out of bed.

After two years of therapy I was a changed person. I left the hospital eager to face the world. After four unsuccessful interviews (during which I told the truth regarding my whereabouts for the preceding two years) I began to catch on. Nobody wanted to take a chance on an "ex-nut."

I decided to omit that part of my history and was hired on my fifth try. The moral of this story is this: If you've ever served time in a mental hospital, or even had an appointment with a psychiatrist forget to mention it when you go looking for a job. —Sins of Omission

Dear Sins: I know of no employment form which asks if a person has been hospitalized in a mental institution or received psychiatric treatment. I see no good reason to volunteer this information during a job interview. Speaking for myself, I would be inclined to favor the person who had some psychiatric orientation because of the insights and understanding he could bring to the job.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My boy friend gave me a ring for my 20th birthday. We planned to be married next year.

Last week he told me I could keep the ring as a souvenir but he wanted out. He also said he preferred not to tell me the reason, but I finally got it out of him. It is my mother. He says he just can't stand her because she is so nosey and talks all the time. According to him we would never be able to lead our own lives and he would rather not get into this kind of a family.

These past few months I caught him in a few lies and wondered if maybe he wasn't seeing another girl. I am so confused I don't know what to think.

I feel now that I must choose

Christmas Spirit Didn't Pay for Chicago Baker

CHICAGO (AP) — Axel Holmgren, like many others, has a Yuletide story.

Police recounted it this way: A man known only as "Tom" came to Holmgren's bakery Monday, and asked for a night's work to pay a hotel bill.

"I felt sorry for him, and it is Christmas," Holmgren said.

He paid "Tom" $12. "Tom" returned the next night and asked for another night's work. Holmgren obliged him.

"Tom" donned an apron and, humming Christmas songs, went to the rear door and admitted another man.

Both picked up bread knives. They took $107 from the cash drawer and $5 from Holmgren.

between my mother and my fiancé. I believe if I promised to keep my mother away from us he would go through with the plans. What Shall I do? —Half Crazy

Dear Half: If a boy says he doesn't want to marry you what difference does the reason make? This character sounds flakey. My advice is to give him his ring and tell him to buzz off.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, The Key to Popularity, enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Cape of Organdy

Are you flying to Florida or the Caribbean for New Year's? If so, what are you going to wear over your New Year's Eve dress? The perfect wrap for warm resort evening (or summer, not that far away) is the ruffled organdy cape shown here.

You don't need anything to keep you warm, yet you must wear something over those bare shoulders. It must be a wrap that is perfect for the holiday season and that can carry through to the dances you will attend this summer. It should be something young, exciting, crisp and cool-looking and practical, too. This may sound like a lot to ask of one garment, but this cape, just above-elbow length, is a perfect cover-up for all of these things and simple to make.

Cut a circle of organdy the depth you desire, and the most flattering length for your size.

Finish the edge by turning it under ¼ inch and then turning it ¼ inch again and edge stitching it. Decide whether you want four ruffles or maybe three, then determine how wide each ruffle should be to completely cover the underskirt. To this add ¼ inch for turning hem edge, and ½ inch for overlap; a total of ¾ to one-inch wider than finished width. Strips to be ruffled should be twice the desired finished length for a full ruffle. For a very full ruffled effect, cut strips two and a half times longer than finished length. Cut strips on the straight grain.

Before ruffling, finish bottom edge of each strip. Do this as you did the hem edge of underskirt by folding under ¼ inch and ¼ inch again and edge stitching. Your finished edge should be no more than ¼ inch wide. Be sure to keep it even and carefully stitched.

The ruffle can be made by hand or machine. To make by hand, tiny, running stitches are used to gather the material for the desired fullness. When made by machine, the ruffer attachment can be used. The amount of fullness is controlled by a special screw or gauge and by the length of the stitch. A small stitch will produce more fullness than a larger one. Or, you can make it without the attachment by setting your machine for the longest stitch, making two rows of stitching ¼ inch apart and pulling the bottom threads by hand until you have the desired fullness. Use the method you find the easiest. Attach first ruffle at outer edge of cape, as shown. Second row is stitched in line with the first and so on. Each row should be stitched so that the bottom edge covers the stitching line of the previous ruffle by ½ inch.

Bind neck edge with velvet ribbon, leaving the ends of the ribbon long enough to be tied in a bow.

Police From Two Cities Study Similarities of Break-ins at Churches

OSHKOSH — Investigations by police for similarities in are continuing by both Oshkosh and Manitowish police following similar break-ins and safecrackings at two churches in two days.

Burglars took $100 from St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Menasha, Tuesday evening. The following night they crudely cracked another safe at Christ Lutheran Church here and escaped with $900.

Use Church Tools

In both instances, burglars smashed off door knobs in search of valuables, knocked off the combination dials and pryed open the front of the safes with axes and crowbars, police said. The burglars used equipment found at the churches after they gained entrance to the buildings.

Both Menasha Chief Lester Clark and Oshkosh Police Sgt. Earl Disch said they were convinced that the two crimes were committed by the same person or persons.

Chief Clark noted the burglars had a good knowledge of locks although their safe-cracking efforts were crude. They used a hammer to smash off the door knobs to release the tumbler locks. They attempted to punch through the combination dial of the safes, but when they were unsuccessful, they turned to the more crude method of chopping their way to the contents.

Use Chisel

A chisel was used to get through the top shields of steel of the safes and then an ax used to chop through a concrete insulation. They didn't take checks in the safes and the $100 from the Menasha church was contained in donation envelopes.

Roger Hanuse, custodian of the Christ Lutheran Church, 210 Church Ave., directly across from city hall, reported the burglary to Oshkosh police at 7 a.m. Thursday.

The Rev. Thomas K. Chaffee, pastor of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, reported to Menasha police the break-in and burglary at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Come to Menasha

Two other break-ins and safecrackings, one yesterday in Sheboygan and the other Dec. 3 in Manitowish, are being studied.

Development Group Topic for Rotary

NEENAH — Chairman of the "New Menasha Committee" will be the guest speaker at the Rotary Club meeting Thursday non in Valley Inn.

Mowry Smith, vice president, Menasha Corp., a founder of the movement to upgrade Menasha will give all the inside information concerning the group's movements, Jim Webb, program chairman, said.

Manitowish police plan to come to Menasha to view the circumstances of the church crime. Three weeks ago burglars broke into the First Presbyterian Church in Manitowish, used an ax and other tools to peel open a safe and escaped with around $60.

Burglars obtained between $100 and $200 and an unknown number of checks when they broke open a safe at the Elm City Motors in Sheboygan yesterday. They used tools taken from the garage during the crime.

Jobs Continue Plentiful in Twin City Area

NEENAH - MENASHA — Jobs continue to be plentiful in the Twin City area as employment is up and the demand for workers exceeds the local supply, according to a report by A. P. Engbreton, district manager of the Wisconsin State Employment Service.

Of the 600 applications on file at the end of November, 254 were unemployed and from the area and half of this number were women. Applications from non-residents increased to 170 and 176 persons were employed and seeking either a change of jobs or supplementary employment.

The demand for workers remains high for this time of year. Job openings available in the district WSES office totaled 359 for November, well ahead of the 291 in November of 1964, but a drop from the unprecedented 528 last September.

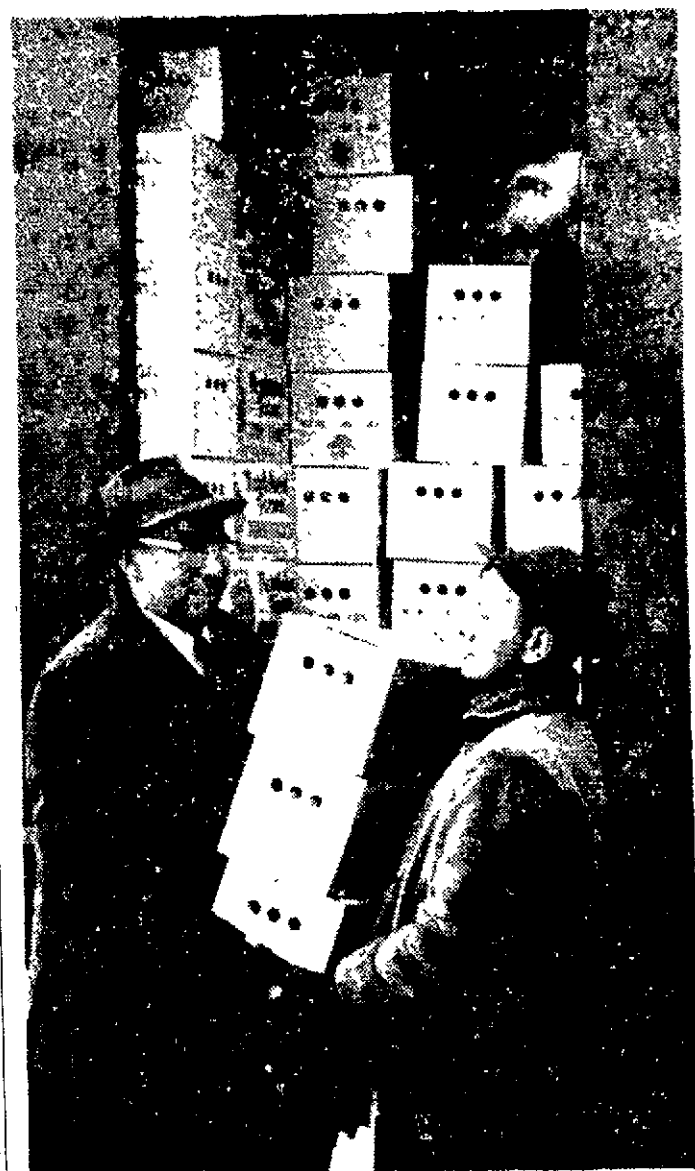

Openings include those in occupations for which there is a continuing demand, such as professional, technical, skilled trades and clerical work, for which qualified local applicants are not available.

Sharp Drop

Following a sharp drop from mid-July to mid-September when students returned to school, employment has been climbing and is expected to continue an upward trend until mid-January. A representative group of establishments in the area reported a gain of 143 workers from mid-September to mid-November and anticipate another gain of 42 by mid-January.

This will be a reversal of the usual trend in the area in which employment has dipped somewhat in December and January, Engbreton said. Current employment is 12,405, only 362 below the summer peak and 131 higher than a year ago at this time.

Manufacturing jobs amounted to 10,509 with paper and allied products providing employment for 7,985.

Post Office Hits New Mail Record

NEENAH — A slow start is turning into the largest Christmas mailing in the history of the post office.

"We estimate the total mailing for the month to exceed 3,000,000 pieces," John Dachel, postmaster said today. The total mailing last year was 2,624,517.

The postmaster said the first week of the month trailed last year by 12,000. The heaviest mailing both years was experienced the week prior to Christmas week, with the heaviest day being Dec. 16 both years.

Top Week

The top week was 1,071,084 pieces of mail handled. This year the figure was increased by 12,636. Dec. 16, 1964, had a total mailing of 201,276 pieces for the top day. This year, on the same day, the mailing was 218,620.

Dachel said the parcel mailing is down this month from the same period last year. He contributed this to United Parcel Service, a private concern, taking a share of the load.

Cancellations for the month are down 29,474 for the first two weeks. Non-cancellations, mail run through metering machines, are up for the two week period by 33,465, Dachel said. This change is caused by 10 additional metering machines issued during the year, he said. The city has 68 meters in operation in businesses and industry.

Better Condition

Dachel said the post office has functioned its best since his five years as postmaster. Mail has arrived in better condition this year than ever before, Dachel said, probably due to less handling than in past years. Outgoing mail arrived in the post office for processing at a steadier rate this year. Long lines at the service windows were non-existent, he said.

Complaints were few and far between. The only problem of the postal department was people not being home when parcels were delivered. In these cases the parcel was returned to the post office and delivered the following day, he said.

Dachel said at 2:30 p.m. Thursday all parcel post had been cleared from the office. This represented the first time in the history of the local department that Christmas parcels had been cleared. He said all parcels received would be delivered by this evening.

Brigade Will Conduct Rifle Owner's Clinic

NEENAH — "Operation check out" will be conducted by the National Rifle Association at the Boys' Brigade building Dec. 28.

All youngsters receiving a rifle for Christmas are urged to attend the instructional meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Jack Casper, Brigade coordinator, said there is no charge. He said it does not only include Brigade members but other boys and girls as well as adults.

The meeting is conducted by qualified instructors of the National Rifle Association. Dick Zeumer will be in charge, assisted by Mike Marsh and Henry Johnson. Brigade leaders also will be available for help, Casper said.

Youngsters bringing a new rifle to the meeting are required by law to be accompanied by a parent. NRA members hope both parents will accompany the youngsters.

Officials said instructions will be given on the particular rifle brought in by each person. Questions on hunting and hunting safety will be answered.

Those with .22 caliber rifles will be given an opportunity to fire on the range if time permits, officials said. Those bringing larger rifles for big game will be given an opportunity to learn. The rifle range at the Brigade building is not equipped to fire rifles of larger bore than .22 caliber, officials said.

Mayor Candidate Files at Menasha

MENASHA — Fourth Ward Alderman Richard Heindl became the second mayoral candidate to file his completed nomination papers today.

Heindl, who has stated he will run on the general platform of being "a fulltime mayor," said he will not announce his complete platform until mid-January.

A miller and two-color pressman at George Banta Co., Heindl is in his third year as alderman for the fourth ward. On the council he serves as the junior member of the three-man finance committee.

He said his theme, "I'd like to be your fulltime mayor" is "not a slap at anyone."

Quit Job

"It just means that I'll have to quit my job" and will have no other one, he said today.

The third mayoral candidate, Kenneth Holmes, chief clerk of the Soo Line's Menasha traffic department, is also running on the central promise of being a fulltime mayor.

Heindl said he will be served by a three-man campaign committee. Members are Elmer Enz, an electrician, chairman; David Haag, a compositor at Banta, secretary, and Thomas Lingnolski, also a compositor at Banta, treasurer.

The campaign between the three candidates will get off to an early start since a primary on March 8 is necessary to cut the number of contestants to two.

Campaign Meeting

Heindl said he will start his campaign Jan. 11 with a meeting of his campaign committee.

The nomination filings close Jan. 25, so some candidates could still announce after the start of Heindl's campaign. Several incumbent aldermen had indicated that they were thinking about running for mayor, but those reports have ceased since the announcement of the present three candidates.

Menasha Sets Tax Collection Deadlines

MENASHA — In the Christmas spirit of taking, the city announced today all personal property taxes are due in full by March 1.

Payments on real estate taxes, however, can be paid in installments. If the installment plan is used, the first quarter of the total amount must be paid by Jan. 31. The second quarter is due by March 31, the third May 31 and the final payment by July 31.

If the taxes are not paid on time, an interest rate on the unpaid amount of eight-tenths of one per cent will be charged each month. That is equivalent to more than a 10 per cent yearly simple interest rate.

Any tax payments totaling less than $20 must be paid in full in one payment and the deadline date is March 1.

The treasurer's office will be open for collections during its regular hours 8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, with the office closed on Saturdays.

Wilbert Edwards, treasurer, said special hours will be set up in January, February and March when the office will be open from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. on Friday evenings.

The total amount taken in will be $2.2 million, but the state will give the city a credit of $236,000 to bring the final city-collected amount under the $2 million mark.

Tax bills will be sent out to 4,591 real estate owners and 275 personal property owners.

Menasha Family Observing Double Christmas, One at Peace, One at War

BY JOHN TORINUS JR.
News-Record Staff Writer

MENASHA — Two of the five Arnoldussen brothers were absent yesterday when the family got together to trim the Christmas tree.

The third oldest, Marshall, 18, was a half a world away celebrating a "foxhole Christmas." The family doesn't know exactly where in Viet Nam he is, but they think he is stationed somewhere near Da Nang Air Force base, one of the hottest spots in the Asian war.

The family doesn't know exactly where the oldest brother, John, 21, is either. He has written that he is aboard ship headed for Viet Nam via the Philippines.

Both are privates first class in the Marine Corps. John, who has been in three years, joined right after graduation from Menasha High School. Marty dropped out to enlist.

Christmas for them, judging by their recent letters, will be something to endure and to forget.

"It won't be long now until Christmas will be right in your laps again," Marshall wrote. "I can't wait till it's over."

"I am sitting on a box of 105 mm Howitzer ammo listening to a radio. They are playing Xmas records, all the good ones."

He writes every day. Sometimes three letters arrive on a day at the Arnoldussen home, 845 Grove St.

The letters remind the Arnoldussen family of how different their Christmas will be from the one spent by the men in Viet Nam. The same reminders have arrived in many Fox Cities homes this year.

Marty reminded his family that "a heart can be someplace, a body another." For the family at home, it's the traditional lights, candies, presents under the tree, tinsel and holly.

A passage in a letter from Marty describes how they look at it over there.

Playboy Decorations "One of the guys got a Christmas tree in the mail, and we have it decorated with a few beer cans and small pictures out of Playboy Magazine — and it looks pretty good."

The Arnoldussens, a family of carpenters, weeks ago sent Christmas packages to the two marines, hoping they'll get there in time.

The packages are the one element of Christmas the brothers are looking forward to. They mentioned the coming packages in nearly every one of their recent letters.

"I will let you know when I get your Christmas package. I hope you put enough for about 40 men in it. You see, we always share our candies and cookies with everybody in the platoon. There are always a couple that don't get any," John said.

As Christmas approaches with her boys gone, Mrs. Arnoldussen said she keeps thinking back to the World War II movie "The Fighting Sullivan," the account of five actual Navy brothers who went down on the same ship.

The second of the five, James, 19, has received his draft classification of 1A, putting him in the most eligible draft status.

Sixteen-year-old Stuart Arnoldussen, a junior at Menasha High, has thought seriously about quitting school when he turns 17 to join the corps. His mother and family frown on this, advising him to finish high school first.

The youngest brother is Dennis, 14. "He just shakes his head when we talk about his other brothers going away," Mrs. Arnoldussen said.

Asked about the draft card burners and anti-Viet Nam war demonstrators, the increased reaction of Mrs. Arnoldussen and her family was understandable.

The family, minus the two brothers, will get together for Christmas eve tonight. John's wife, Patricia, is coming from Appleton, bringing their three-month-old daughter, Charlene, with her.

Like his father in World War II, John will have to finish his tour in a war before he sees his first-born.

'Twas the Night before Christmas...

"... And all through the house, not a creature was stirring" ... except these two little rascals! Christmas is their day ... dreams of toys, and sweets, and games, and lots of wonderful things!

Christmas is for children, yes. But, Christmas is for grownups, too. It's a time to give, a time to receive. But, sometimes the spiritual side is overlooked; not deliberately, of course, but lost in the delightful chaos of cheer and joy and fun.

Then remind yourself, to go to church—your choice! Pause there to pray, to give thanks for all you have received; especially, that wonderful gift, the gift of God Himself, in His infant Son. Christmas is Christ's day, His birthday!

How Much for Christmas?

Tonight Twin City residents will be heading toward church and special services commemorating a historic date in all Christian lives.

Each of us will feel a warm inner glow at seeing loved ones home for a short visit. For many mothers and fathers, because of our world at war, there will be a proud moment as the reflection from church lights and candles twinkle off the brass of a serviceman's uniform.

Christmas has its own special meaning to every individual whether it be the joy of giving material gifts or dedication once again to the principle characterized in Christ's rebirth.

Christmas truly is the time for giving. On this date Christ gave himself to the world to begin a 33-year pilgrimage that would end on a cross to assure man's eternal salvation. The ideal of material gifts was symbolized in the giving — and receiving by the Holy Family — of the Wisemen's gold, frankincense and myrrh.

Our merchants have been daily advertising their wares and families responding by purchasing the many objects to place about a Christmas tree.

Many a budget went haywire these last few weeks. We all have said we are giving no more — each time we check a price tag and then buy an additional gift.

Price tags represent value. We might ask ourselves these questions.

Do we place high price tags on the community rather than on the family? Are things of time of more value than things of eternity?

Are material gifts more than gifts of spirit?

When our wives or husbands ask more of us do we give them a lounge chair instead?

When our children long for love and sympathy do we put them off with a pair of roller skates?

This Christmas we might reverse our price tags and place high value on gifts of the heart and of the spirit — timeless and eternal.

We can, this night, give the greatest gift of all — ourself to God and our loved ones.

Merry Christmas!

Nursery Schoolers Make Yule Candy

NEENAH — Last week, pint-sized confectioners — youngsters enrolled in the nursery center at the First Methodist Church — cooked pounds of fudge and candy for Christmas gifts for their parents. With the assistance of teachers, Mrs. Tim Brown and Mrs. Buist Walker, the three and four-year-olds did it all — from cooking and baking to decorating the boxes into which the goodies were packed.

The pictures here, taken by News-Record Photographer, Mark Webb, reflect the youngsters' seriousness and concentration with their work. If all parents believe the most wonderful gift is one their child has made, parents of these youngsters will be delighted Christmas morning.

The nursery center is non-sectarian and licensed by the State Department of Public Welfare. Both three and four-year-olds meet together — some five times a week. Enrollment is available to students one or more days per week upon a registration basis. The center is under the auspices of the Methodist Church which is its sponsoring institution.

Making Christmas candy projects the youngsters have done this semester. Other culinary experiences have been making butter and a Thanksgiving pudding on that holiday. The boys and girls have seasonal art projects and various daily activities such as show-and-tell time and free play periods.

Mrs. Brown teaches kindergarten in the afternoons at Wilson School. Mrs. Walker previously taught in the Menasha Public School System three years and prior to that in the Des Moines, Iowa schools.

Teacher Mrs. Walker, above, stirs the candy mixture assisted by Craig Van Alstine who's ready to pour in the chocolate chips. Besides making the Christmas candy, the youngsters have made butter and Thanksgiving pudding this past semester. Craig is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Alstine, Neenah. (News-Record Photos)

August Peters, commander, and Dan Howman, prelate, have charge of the local program.

Not Only Did the nursery school youngsters make the candy, but they also decorated the boxes into which they put the gifts. Above, Cathy Updike, left and Karen Hagstrom are busy pasting, cutting and arranging colored paper ornamentation on their boxes. Cathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Updike, Neenah. Karen's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hagstrom, Neenah.

After All Candy presents were wrapped, dejected Jeff Delrow, Mary Beth Silver, Ronnie Cosgrove and Tommy Gummerus, above, had envisioned licking the candy bowl, but school rules say no treats in the classrooms. Jeff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Delrow, Appleton. Mary Beth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Silver, Neenah. Ronnie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Cosgrove, Menasha, and Tommy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. S. H. Gummerus, Neenah. Neenah, Lourdes Surprise Teams In Mid-Eastern, FVCC Cage Races NEENAH - MENASHA — With the championship races in the Mid-Eastern and Fox Valley Catholic Conferences barely off to a good start, each circuit boasts but one undefeated team. Neenah is the surprise leader in the M-E wheel with a 4-0 mark while Appleton Xavier is the undisputed holder of first place in the FVCC with a similar log.

The four games represent only two sevenths of the 14-round schedule although Premontre and Marinette Catholic Central already have played a fifth FVCC test.

Except for Neenah's place at the head of the standings and Two Rivers' poor start, the Mid-Eastern Conference race is going along as expected.

Before completing the circuit the first time, the Rockets must meet Kimberly, Menasha and New London.

The defending co-champions, Kimberly and Menasha, both expected to be contenders, are only a game out with 3-1 with Steinmetz 5th Among Midwest League Scorers MENASHA — Lawrence's Tom Steinmetz, Menasha senior, ranks fifth among Midwest Conference scorers with 76 points in four games for a 19 point average.

Steinmetz actually is second in points scored but has the fifth best average. Rick Chap of Carleton leads with 54 points in two starts for a 27 point average.

The Menasha High School graduate led the Vikings in scoring last year, was second rebounding and was named the most valuable player.

Funeral Services Held for Father Of Menasha Men

MENASHA — Funeral services were held at Green Bay Thursday morning for Gust Dachelet, 77, father of John and Howard Dachelet, proprietors of Mid-Town Lanes here. He died Monday.

He was born March 29, 1888 in Belgium and resided in Appleton before moving to Green Bay 42 years ago. He was engaged in the grocery business until his retirement 25 years ago.

Survivors include the widow, three sons, two sisters, 20 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Hilly Koslowski 585, Pete Kowalski 582, Claude Charron that first shot at the Rockets on the immediate horizon.

Raiders Post 1-3 — Two Rivers had been expected to be up with the leaders but its only victory was scored over Kaukauna while losing to Menasha, Neenah and Kimberly, the latter two games by convincing margins.

Before making the first swing of the circuit, the Bluejays must face Kaukauna and Clintonville in addition to Neenah while the Papermakers play Shawano and the Trunkers.

Shawano, on the basis of its triumph over Menasha, also could be a factor in the race. It has a 2-2 record.

The Fox Valley Catholic Conference pennant chase is beginning to resemble those of past years with Xavier at the top and the rest of the clubs bumping off each other.

St. Mary, picked by the sportswriters to annex first place, is fighting to stay alive with a 2-2 mark and it will have to beat Springs, Pennington and Xavier in its initial three league games after the holidays to keep pace.

Cadets Disappoint — Lourdes, in undisputed second place, has been a surprise package although its lone loss to Xavier was convincing. Premontre has been a major

Seymour Family Temporarily Split

Joy Mingles With Sadness In Orphans' Christmas Plans

SEYMOUR — Hopes for a family Christmas together despite the death Monday of their father were ended Thursday for the five orphaned children of Jacob Sculzewski when relatives took the children into their homes for the holiday.

While their temporary status was upset, prospects for a more stable future began taking shape for the orphans.

A guardian was appointed for the family, the Appleton Apostolate received offers from three persons to take the entire family permanently, and cash donations totaling almost $400 plus food and clothing continued to pour in until the family had to begin declining the gifts.

Reside On Farm

The Rev. Donald Borchardt, director of the Appleton Apostolate, said a retired Appleton man had offered to reside on the farm with the children so they could remain together.

A number of persons had offered to take one or more of the children, Father Borchardt said.

Alfred "Jack" Ghiloni, an uncle of the children from Wisconsin Rapids, was named the children's guardian Thursday by Outagamie County Judge Urban Van Susteren. Mrs. Ghiloni was a sister of the late Sculzewski.

Ghiloni will administer the $600 monthly Social Security benefit to each of the children.

Stay With Relatives

The older girls, Janet and Lois, will stay with the Ghilonis during the holidays. They have two older sons in the service and an older married daughter.

The twins, Arlene and Marlene, are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Forster, West Allis. Mrs. Forster was a sister of Sculzewski.

The 17-year-old son, Lynn, who has been managing the farm almost singlehandedly, will continue to care for the herd and farm temporarily.

Mrs. Donald Leisch, 1523 N. Hall Ave., Appleton, a friend of the family when they lived in Appleton more than five years ago, will be his housekeeper. She has two young children of her own, 7 and 9.

Lynn will receive limited supervision from Edward Peotter Sr., Town of Osborn chairman, special administrator for his father's estate. Peotter said status of the farm has not been determined, but he expected developments soon.

Resume High School

Lynn is expected to spend Christmas with friends of the family near Freedom. After the holidays he will resume his high school education.

Sculzewski's brothers and sisters will gather at Wisconsin Rapids with the Ghilonis to map the children's future.

Mrs. Peotter said the sudden splitting of the family caused a slight problem with incoming food and clothing. Excess items which can't be used by the children will be donated to area needy families, she said.

Response in cash donations got the biggest boost from the Appleton office of the Wisconsin Telephone Co., where employees collected $130. They are sending it to Mrs. Peotter with specific instructions that she "spend it on the children."

Boxes of Groceries

Another sizeable amount, $45, was collected by employees of Treasure Island in Appleton. They also sent two boxes of groceries which arrived after the children had departed with relatives. Area women will purchase the groceries and donate the money to the children's fund.

Mrs. Harvey Doersch, president of an area homemakers club which sparked a recent aid campaign before the father died, reported contributions totaling $51. A Neenah couple sent a $25 check. A total of $20 was received at a downtown Seymour business place serving as a collection point.

Mrs. Peotter said she planned to write to large contributors outlining how their money was spent for the children. Shoes, boots and assorted articles of clothing already have been purchased, she said. Mrs. Peotter said she had spent about $120 of the funds including $1 for each of the children for "pocket money."

Find Death in Crash Due to Broken Neck

Dr. Oliver H. Bauman, 70, Wabeno, whose car was involved in a head-on crash a mile north of Black Creek about 5 p.m. Wednesday, died of a broken neck, a pathological examination has revealed.

Findings of Thursday's examination were announced today by Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps, who ordered the test to determine if the Wabeno dentist died of a heart attack or crash injuries.

A witness told Outagamie County traffic police that Bauman's car went onto the right shoulder of State 47, then swerved to the left into the path of a pickup truck driven by Wayne Allen, 35, route 1, Black Creek.

Also killed in the accident was Robert Dey, 33, route 1, Black Creek, a passenger in the pickup truck. He died of carbon monoxide poisoning in a fire that followed the collision.

With the official ruling on Bauman's death, the Outagamie County traffic toll now stands at 26, one short of the all-time high set in 1952 and the same number as the final 1964 count.

Authorities Solve Theft, Break-Ins in Outagamie Area

A burglary and theft at the old Outagamie County airport and several break-ins at two cottages have been solved by Outagamie County sheriff's investigators.

Two youths, 16 and 17, have admitted taking about $50 from an office drawer in the old airport last Jan. 7. They entered the building through an unlocked door, authorities said.

Three Appleton youths have admitted entering two cottages on the Fox River a mile east of Appleton during August and October. A fourth youth is being questioned in connection with the burglaries.

The cottages are owned by Lawrence University and Karl A. Schuettler. Several items, including antiques and liquor, were taken from the cottages. Most of the items have been recovered, authorities said.

Car Strikes, Damages Bakery in Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Extensive damage was caused to the Hilltop Bakery owned by Albert Gerhard, 100 E. Seventh St., about 5:30 p.m. Thursday when it was struck by a car driven by Elmer Vanenheoven, 229 Idlewild St.

Vanenheoven was parked and the car was in gear. As he prepared to back away, his foot slipped off the clutch pedal and the car went forward into the building.

Participants in Jail, Hospital After Fight At Oneida Tavern

Two Hospitalized, One Held After Bar Brawl Thursday

ONEIDA — Two men are in a Green Bay hospital today and one is in jail following a tavern brawl here Thursday night in which angle irons, cue sticks, pop bottles and beer glasses were used.

About 15 persons, both men and women, reportedly took part in the battle at Danforth's Bar about 7 p.m. Police were summoned from Brown County, Outagamie County and the Town of Oneida to handle the fight that apparently started after a group of five white men walked into the tavern and got into an argument with several Indians.

Most of those involved in the fight were from the Green Bay, DePere and Oneida areas, authorities said.

One Charged

Only one person, a 25-year-old DePere man, has been charged so far, but complaints probably will be signed against several more after further investigation, according to Outagamie County authorities.

The DePere man is being held in the Outagamie County jail on charges of disorderly conduct and assault and battery.

The two men in St. Vincent Hospital, today, are Fredmond Hill, 26, route 1, Oneida, with multiple cuts about the head and wrist, and John H. Davis, 22, route 1, West DePere, with scalp cuts and a back injury.

Although Davis was listed in only fair condition early this morning, his condition reportedly has improved and the conditions of both men now are listed as good.

Hill was taken to the hospital by Muehl's Ambulance. Authorities report he lost a lot of blood.

Treated, Released

Treated and released from St. Vincent was Reuben Lasee, 24, 217 Grant St., DePere, who received a scalp laceration.

Several other persons, including women, received lesser injuries, mostly cuts and bruises, authorities said.

Most of the persons in the bar when the fight broke out became involved, police said. Although order was restored in a short time, police worked for two and a half hours questioning witnesses and attempting to determine how the brawl began.

Brown County and Green Bay police stopped five men in a car at 12th and Ninth Streets in Green Bay a short time after the fight and questioned them about their part in the incident.

Weapons used in the brawl were confiscated by Outagamie County police.

Four Injured In Accidents In Kimberly

Whiplash, Bruises Reported After Two Collisions in Village

KIMBERLY — Two accidents, both resulting in injuries, were investigated Thursday by village police.

At 4:45 p.m. a car driven by Roger Powell, 55, 327 Matthew St., stopped in traffic on W. Kimberly Avenue before making a left turn on Joseph Street, when his vehicle was struck from behind by a car driven by Robert Stuyvenberg, 28, 197 S. James St.

Mrs. Powell complained of a whiplash injury to her neck and Junia Stuyvenberg, passenger in the second auto, suffered a bruised right leg.

Damage was estimated at about $450.

Attempting to Pass

At 10:15 p.m. a car driven by Martin Lambrecht, 18, 1520 W. Fourth St., slowed for traffic before making a left turn when his car was struck in the left side by an auto driven by Patrick O'Brien, 21, 817 Oviatt St., Kaukauna, who was attempting to pass.

Lambrecht's wife was checked at the Kaukauna Community Hospital and released.

O'Brien was confined to the hospital with a bruised knee and an abrasion to his head.

Thousands Ignore Ring for Needy Christmas Spirit Absent on Avenue

BY ROY VALITCHKA II
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Christmas, for some few people, is made by the clink of a cold coin thrown into a tin pot.

That pot is one of three on Appleton's College Avenue manned by volunteers of the Salvation Army. Stands are set up each season about two and a half weeks before Christmas and men and women daily ring little brass bells to call shoppers attention to the need of those less fortunate than themselves.

Day after day shoppers go about their tasks ignoring bell ringers or purposely looking the other way when they pass. I know. I was one of the bell ringers.

Deeper Meaning

My Christmas has more meaning now because I've learned what it means to be humbled, ignored and snickered at.

For a little more than two hours Tuesday I stood on a busy College Avenue corner, coffee pot in hand. A cheap red ribbon tied about the glass container's neck, fluttered with my shivers and a breeze created by passing shoppers. The other hand be-

The two best, submitted by Tony Eggers, seated left, St. Joseph School, and Dennis VanHandel, right, St. Thomas More School, were submitted in state competition. Other local winners, standing from left, are Diane Maas, Sacred Heart; George Franz, St. Pius X; Judy Dexheimer, St. Therese; Karen Schaefer, St. Bernadette, the only repeater from last year, and Yvonne Kokke and Ellen Fourness, both St. Mary School, who collaborated on a poster. Thousands Pass By Thousands of persons passed but fewer than a dozen stopped to drop coins into the container.

Shields hung from neck with a piece of store string indicated we were members of Optimist Clubs helping the Salvation Army.

It's hard to say just how much Optimists helped. By the end of the evening my pot had slightly more than $6 made up of a solitary dollar bill, one 50 cent piece, a collection of quarters and dimes, nickles and pennies. Pennies were in the majority.

Shoppers Shuffle

Shoppers shuffle, drag their heels or step out with a purposeful pace. Snatches of conversation are interesting.

One woman, as she passed, gave a sideways glance and muttered something about derelicts from skid row to her companion. For her information I have two young children, a wonderful wife and drink very little.

To the fellow who cracked something about hearing bells but saw nothing — I stand 6 feet, 3 inches tall and would have appreciated a donation.

You learn soon you can't coerce charity. Several times I asked someone to help the Salvation Army and got only dirty looks in reply.

Brightest Moment

My brightest moment was provided by a young boy who asked if he could ring my bell. I let him and he skipped merrily into the crowd. A half hour later he returned and offered me all his change, a few coppers, because he wanted to ring the bell again.

The largest number of donors were youngsters who timidly dropped a quarter into the pot — the money provided by parents standing in the background.

My night was a failure if the Salvation Army measures our success by the number of dollars collected.

I did nothing compared to the little gray haired lady in the tattered coat that has been ringing the bell at that same corner day in and day out this Christmas season.

Her expression changes very little as the hours and shoppers pass. You soon get used to being ignored, she said, and are satisfied to wait.

She feels here Christmas has been a success. On a good day she netted $52. When I relieved her she reported a $44 collection for her all-day stint.

The woman, who said she was a little cold and a little stiff was going to a prayer meeting at the Army's hall.

I wondered, as I rang that bell, what she prayed for that night.

'Operation Look Homeward' Paper Firms Sponsor Program for Students

Paper companies today issued a last call for "Operation Look Homeward", the Christmastime open-house program for vacationing college students.

Advance registrations indicated there would be a large turnout for the event, which begins at 10 a.m., Tuesday, at the Institute of Paper Chemistry, 1043 E. South River St.

"Operation Look Homeward" is being sponsored locally by seven paper manufacturing firms and the Institute. Companies participating are American Can Co., Marathon Paper Products Group of American Can Co., Appleton Coated Paper Co., Bergstrom Paper Co., Fox River Paper Corp., Kimberly-Clark Corp., Riverside Paper Corp. and Thimany Pulp and Paper Co.

Statewide, the project is sponsored by the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service, a also.

Neenah-based association of major paper manufacturers. Purpose is to acquaint students with papermaking career possibilities in their home communities.

The opening program Tuesday morning will include talks by D. W. Bergstrom, executive vice president of Bergstrom Paper Co., Neenah, and general chairman of the Information Service; David Wiggins of the State Department of Resource Development, and Dr. Arild Miller and Arnold Grummer of the Institute staff.

Students desiring to attend were urged to contact the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service, 104 N. Commercial St., Neenah. However, executives said students who will not have had the opportunity to register by Tuesday morning would be welcomed.

Little Fellow Not Quite So Small Today

But Hardship Times Not Yet Over in Warring World

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The little guy, any little guy going home this Christmas Eve, wondered if he could really be called little any more. It didn't matter much. But other things did. He felt a bit uneasy.

He knew he was as tall as a mouse years ago when he hardly had a dime and he had to wait for the after-Christmas sales to buy his wife the things he wanted to buy before Christmas. But that was in the past.

This Christmas he had money to spend, more than ever, and so did most people he knew. That wasn't bright, he thought, since he didn't know many people, only those in the office or the neighborhood or old friends.

Those Unknown

What bothered him was the people he didn't know and could only imagine. He didn't think about them all the time, or perhaps even often, but only when the thoughts came, blinking in his head like lights, as they did now.

He was one of those guys, meaning practically everybody, who kept wondering how he was doing. He knew he wasn't doing so well as some but a lot better than many.

He remembered reading there are at least 371 millionaires in this country and also 25 million people in families with less than $3,000 income a year and 45 million in families with less than $20 a week.

What's Enough?

It made him a little uneasy to know he was doing lots better than so many. He wondered if anyone could ever truly feel easy until everybody had enough. He asked himself: "What's enough?" He knew it was a silly question.

There are people and nations with less than nothing who have to push. But there are people and nations who have plenty or soon will who keep pushing, telling themselves what they want is a better life.

The little guy grinned. He knew it would be a rare one who was philosopher enough to figure out what a really good life is, much less a better one.

All his life, it seemed, when he watched a guy elbowing his way upstairs, or listened to him, he'd always quietly ask him: "What would you do if you had a million dollars right now?" He never got an answer, once.

But in his lifetime, he knew,

Marriage Is Christmas Gift For Paralyzed Polio Victim

CHAPEL HILL, N.C., Dec. 24 (AP) — A young bride said today her marriage is a "wonderful Christmas gift that has opened a new life for me."

Mrs. Dorothy Fields, 23, is a polio victim, paralyzed from the neck down and attached to a life-giving respirator. She has been in that condition for six years.

Her hospital courtship with Robert Fields, 28, was culminated Tuesday with their marriage in North Carolina Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill.

Fields, who works at a drive-in restaurant, said, "I married her because I love her, and not because of sympathy."

Understanding Person

"Robert is a wonderful, understanding person," said Mrs. Fields. "In my condition, he has to love me a lot to marry me. This marriage means a lot to me."

They hope to live in a mobile home, but first they must get permission for the state-owned respirator to be turned over to them.

"The biggest Christmas present of all will be to get in my home," Mrs. Fields said happily. "It's something to look forward to after all these years. The home is ready for me to move in to."

Couldn't Move

The dark-haired bride, married once previously, said she awoke Dec. 1, 1959, to find her there would be no end to the showing going on among whole nations of people, either inside with themselves or outside against one another, as in Asia, Africa and Latin America now.

It made him think of the Vietnamese war where people on both sides are fighting because each side is convinced it is right and is trying to change the other one's mind with a bullet in the head.

He thought of the Americans who have died and will die in Viet Nam so guys like him back home could have a good Christmas, and many more of the same.

But for most of the people in this world, he knew, it wasn't a very merry Christmas or anything but another day, and probably a grim one. He'd like to think it might be different but in his lifetime, he knew, it wouldn't.

When he is asleep all the unhappy, unpleasant things don't light up in his head. Nothing does. He wished he could dim them when he was wide awake. But he knew he never could, quite, so long as he was able to think and feel.

after a U.S. adviser to a Vietnamese unit asked for help. One strike caught a group of guerrillas as they were washing clothes in a stream, a spokesman said, and 10 were killed.

The American adviser said he counted 75 dead Viet Cong after another attack.

A South Vietnamese battalion reported it killed 55 Viet Cong in a battle 7 miles southwest of Hoi

An. Another battalion claimed 32 guerrillas killed and 10 captured in a search-and-destroy operation 32 miles northwest of Hue.

American troops across the country were getting ready to celebrate Christmas. Marines at Da Nang drove an amphibious tractor dubbed the "Jingle Bell Special" into the countryside, covering its machine gun with a red-and-white striped cardboard candy cane.

"Peace on Earth"

Placards on the sides proclaimed in Vietnamese: "Peace on earth, good will toward men." A sign on the rear said "Bong, bong, beat the Cong."

Basically, it's our holiday," said Lt. David Duffy of Syracuse, N.Y., a Marine civic action officer, "but we can always pass out some of our goodies to these people."

Almost everywhere American units of any size were stationed, they held Christmas parties for local children, for widows and orphans of South Vietnamese soldiers. Toys, clothes and other gifts from soldiers' relatives and organizations in the United States swelled Santa's pack for the South Vietnamese guests.

Turkey dinners with all the traditional trimmings were being readied for all American units. Comedian Bob Hope and a troupe of beauties and musicians arrived in Saigon to entertain the men. The U.S. command lifted the nightly curfew it had proclaimed for its forces in Saigon last weekend.

Shake Hands

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic vicar to the U.S. armed forces, again was visiting Viet Nam at Christmas-time. A helicopter took him to Di An, north of Saigon, to visit the U.S. 1st Infantry Division.

"I want to shake all your hands," the 76-year-old cardinal told the 500 soldiers at Thaa.

The approach of the Christmas truce was accompanied by rising pressure from around the world for a longer cease-fire and for peace talks to end the war. State Department officials in Washington were silent about possible U.S. responses to the peace buildup.

2 Persons Hurt In Auto Mishaps In Appleton

Two persons were injured in separate accidents on Appleton streets Thursday.

William J. Nelson, 51, 209 Jefferson St., Kaukauna, received minor injuries when the car he was driving struck a parked car owned by Gerald Reichelt, 825 Emily St., Menasha, about 8:30 p.m. in the 1100 block of N. Mason Street.

Nelson told traffic police he was traveling south on Mason when he was blinded by the headlights of an oncoming vehicle.

Dorothy E. Dorn, 3901 N. Lyndale St., received a nose injury about 10:30 a.m. Thursday when her car struck a utility pole at W. Harris and Locust Streets.

She told police her car skidded on icy pavement as she made a right turn onto Harris.

'Black Christmas' New Marches Planned In Mississippi Protest

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — On the eve of Christmas, Negroes plan new marches in two Mississippi strongholds of the Ku Klux Klan to dramatize their "Black Christmas" protest.

The marches coincide with Christmas - buying boycotts in Natchez and Fayette, 25 miles to the north.

Even as Charles Evers exhorted crowds Thursday night, the Grand Dragon of the United Klans of America swore out an affidavit charging Natchez Police Chief J. T. Robinson with willful neglect of duty.

The segregationist maneuver came after civil rights chiefs ordered a renewed boycott against merchants in Natchez - accusing them of violating a three-week-old treaty on racial differences.

Similar Boycott

Evers, field director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, scheduled the Christmas Eve march in Fayette to dramatize a boycott similar to one which shackled the economy of Natchez, until it ended Dec. 3.

Sixty state troopers were ordered into the tense rural town to keep order during the demonstration - which Evers said would include 2,000 marchers.

Evers told his followers they must go on the streets of Natchez later in the day unless two policemen involved in a racial flareup Wednesday were fired.

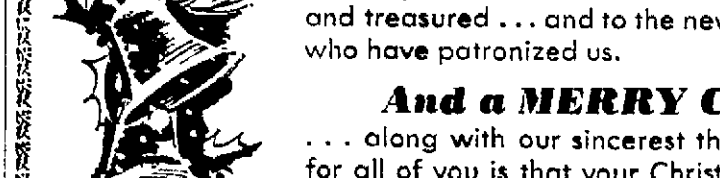

"Don't carry guns, knives or sticks," he said.

The affidavit by Klan Dragon E. L. McDaniel charged Robinson with refusal to arrest persons violating state laws. The specifics of the charges were not learned.

Milwaukee Police Chief Shoots Man

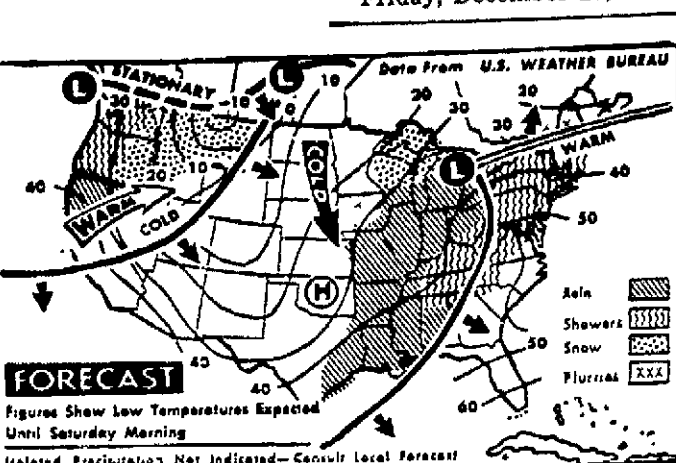

MILWAUKEE (AP) — For the third time in his 25 years on the Milwaukee police force, Police Chief Harold A. Breier has shot a man in the line of duty.

Breier emptied his revolver Thursday at David Lee Settles, 34, Chicago, when Settles threatened to kill the police chief and threw a knife at him. Settles was critically wounded as were two earlier victims who survived.

Breier, who was on his way to lunch with Deputy Inspector Charles Jackelen, responded to a radio call of "a man with a gun" at a nearby tavern.

Select Prettiest Christmas Cards to Hang in Your Den

BY CAPPY DICK

Have you received some Christmas cards that are too pretty to put away? If so, I believe you will have fun framing them to hang on the wall of your own room. Even a 1965 calendar picture you al-for some old picture frames. Select those that will fit the pictures you wish to frame, then get busy freshening up the frames

If a corner of a frame has become unglued, apply some furniture glue (available at hardware stores) and tie the frame together firmly with string until the glue has hardened. If a frame made of plaster composition has become chipped and cracked, patch it with sealing wax or some plaster-of-Paris. Old metal frames can be brightened with metal polish.

Clean and polish the glass of the frame until it is shining and clear. If the picture you wish to place in the frame is too big, trim it down until it fits. If it is smaller than the frame, use a piece of construction paper for a mat, or background. Paste the picture on the paper, using library paste. Apply just a little in a narrow line along the top edge of the picture. Be sure the picture is centered on the paper from left to right, but is a trifle higher than the center from top to bottom. When the pasting has been completed, place the mat in the frame.

U.S. Benefits From Indonesia Turn of Events

Non-Intervention Policy Paying Off As Peking Suffers

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Without lifting a finger, the United States has now become the beneficiary in Indonesia of political dividends undreamed of three short months ago.

The U. S. Embassy staff in Jakarta is now reduced from 1,000 to 100, the Peace Corps has been withdrawn, and the last bits and pieces of a once prolific foreign aid program are being cleaned out. Thus, the Johnson administration has been no more than a passive bystander in the anti-Communist revolution sweeping the world's fifth largest country (population: 105 million).

And yet this sudden U. S. inactivity (following several years of intensive but vain diplomatic courtship) has been accompanied by the greatest foreign policy defeat in the 16-year history of Communist China's expansionist policy: the collapse of the Peking-dominated PKI (Communist Party of Indonesia). But that is just one of the dividends that the U. S. policy of intentional non-intervention luckily has fallen heir to.

Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio, backed by the 3 million member PKI and the ailing but powerful President Sukarno, just six months ago had his hands on every power lever in the country. He was systematically using them to destroy all Western influence, particularly Washington's. Subandrio controlled the intelligence service, the press, foreign trade, and the Foreign Ministry.

Today Subandrio is the most conspicuous omission on the new leadership of the Supreme Operation Command, called KOTI. The motive power on KOTI is now Gen. Haris Nasution, head of the armed services and the hero of the anti-PKI revolution. KOTI's power now has been superimposed over Sukarno's regular cabinet and constitutes the government.

Six months ago the United States Embassy was issuing almost daily formal complaints to Subandrio over insults to the U. S. Now it is the Chinese who beat a path to the Foreign Ministry to complain about "insults" — 15 formal complaints in two months. The Peking Communists have pulled their technicians out of a half-completed textile mill and cancelled other aid projects.

Through all this, President Johnson has imposed a blanket of strictest diplomatic silence. With one minor exception, the amazing fact is that no American has talked to Sukarno or to Gen. Nasution since the military took over in early October. No offer has come from Washington to resume U. S. aid, Sargent Shriver's Peace Corpsmen withdrawn last summer, are not going back now.

Nor does President Johnson plan any immediate change in this unprecedented U. S. policy of hands off. Keeping in close touch with developments in Jakarta through tightly-written weekly memorandums from the State Department, the President is fully aware that the slightest gesture of U. S. interest — or expression of U. S. pleasure at the turn of events — could backfire against us.

While the U. S. mutely

Military Message Wishes Joy, Peace

PARIS (AP) — Ambassador-at-large Jean Chauvel returned to Paris today from a trip to Peking and Hanoi.

Chauvel went to Peking to open a French industrial exhibition, then went on to Hanoi. He talked with leaders of China and North Viet Nam, but what was said has not been disclosed.

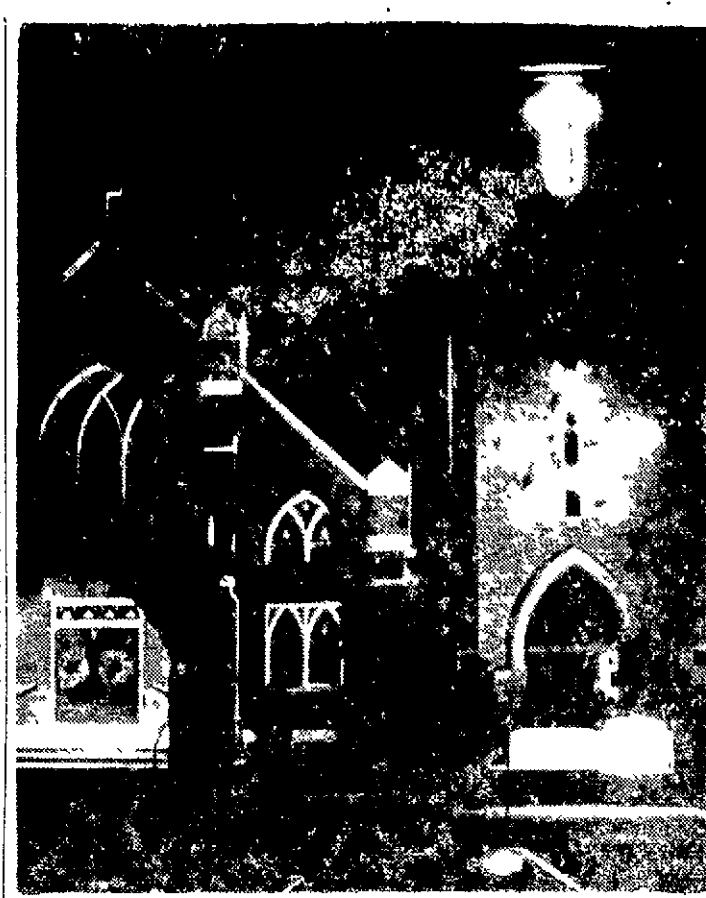

But the revolution is rich with ironies. For example, although supposedly built from the ground up with a tightly-disciplined cadre organization in thousands of Indonesian villages, the PKI has turned out to be a paper tiger.

Diplomats now wonder whether the PKI's alleged power and its fallen leaders ever were more than a myth, whether Communist discipline directed from Peking ever could be imposed on the Indonesian people.

Furthermore, the hatred preached by the PKI's shrill leaders at hundreds of mass rallies has now been turned by the people against the PKI itself. Judging from events since the anti-PKI revolution started, the Communists never could have translated into action the power they claimed on paper.

But of all the ironies, the deepest is this: that without a Western muscle being flexed, the Communist world has suffered in Indonesia its worst defeat since the destruction of the Malayan guerrillas in 1959.

Thunderball 'Spectacular Spoof'

Hilarious Hokum Hits Stride in Bond Movie

Hilarious hokum hits its stride in the newest and best James Bond movie adventure "Thunderball," currently playing at the Viking Theater.

It's pure escape stuff and very funny as Agent 007 skips along from one preposterous adventure to another. Sean Connery is ably assisted by beautiful Claudine Auger.

There are underwater love scenes as this fast-moving pair dodges SPECTRE, underground organization out to destroy the intrepid British agent with its own corps of frogmen.

Fantastic Props

The movie's designer must have been given a blank check to create the fantastic props that outdo any of the "Bond" forerunners. Set in the Bahamas, both water and beaches, there is a giant hydrofoil that skims across the ocean at 95 miles an hour, there are rocket-driven motor bikes, a two-man diving bell that operates way down, enormous underwater sleds capable of transporting H-

Traffic Count Proposed in Fatal Crash

Coroner, Attorney Suggest Action in Vander Loop Death

A charge of failing to yield the right of way has been recommended against Robert McHugh, 28, route 1, Hortonville, in connection with a traffic accident Dec. 11 that resulted in the death of Todd Michael Vander Loop, 3, route 3, Kaukauna.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps today announced the findings of a coroner's inquest held Thursday. The findings were made by Kemps and Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer after study of testimony.

McHugh was driver of a car that pulled onto County Trunk OO from Ballard Road and was involved in an accident with a car driven by Paul Vander Loop, 29, father of the dead boy. Vander Loop was westbound on OO.

McHugh testified Thursday that he waited at the stop sign on Ballard Road until two eastbound cars passed before he turned west onto OO. He and a passenger in his car, Miss Marilee Goffin, 1712 Melrose St., said the Vander Loop car was "two blocks away" when they pulled out.

Vander Loop and a passenger in his car, David Thiel, 24, route 1, Fremont, testified that the McHugh car pulled onto OO about "75 to 100 feet ahead."

Man Pleads Innocent of Tipsy Driving

KAUKAUNA — Joseph Minton, 29, 240 S. Matthew St., Kimberly, pleaded innocent of operating a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court today.

Minton was arrested about 9:25 p.m. Thursday when the car he was driving west in the 400 block of 10th Street struck a legally parked vehicle owned by Timothy Landerman, 21, 428 Brill St.

Minton suffered a cut nose, lip and wrist in the accident. His vehicle traveled 63 feet after the accident and the Landerman auto was pushed over the curb and traveled 54 feet across the grass before hitting a power pole.

Pessimism Not Ruling In Kenosha

Christmas Buying Down on First Day Of AMC Shutdown

KENOSHA (AP) — Pessimism is not the pervading spirit in Kenosha even though there appeared to be a dip in Christmas buying on the first day of a three week shutdown of the giant American Motors Corp.

Most merchants and civic leaders refused to let pessimism cloud the future.

Merchants and city officials are playing guessing games as to how many of about 2,300 AM employees who will not return to their jobs when production is resumed on Jan. 17 are actually Kenosha residents.

Mayor Eugene Hammond said Kenosha would "like to have the 2,300 stay here." But many of them live in Illinois and in surrounding communities, he said.

On a note of optimism he said that many of the 2,300 low seniority employees probably had commuted to Kenosha to work. Their absence will not be sorely missed, he said.

O. H. Vandenberg, president of the First National Bank in Kenosha, said loss of the $15 million dollar weekly AM payroll in Kenosha was bound to hurt the Merchants' holiday shopping season.

Eugene H. Bode, said that his furniture store, the largest in the city, was doing a business "far ahead of last year and last year was our biggest year since we started in 1894."

120 foot depth, of the north end of his property rezoned to permit operation of a television and radio repair shop. An earlier request for rezoning of all the property was denied by the commission. A building located on Kimberly Avenue which must be removed to permit expansion of a super market would be moved onto the site. The property faces an alleyway between Kimberly Avenue and First Streets.

Packers Seek Third Win of Season Over Colts Sunday

Lombardi Sure Bays Will be Up

GREEN BAY — Beating the Baltimore Colts twice in one season was tough enough but beating them a third time will be the most difficult feat of all, says Coach Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers.

The Colts and Packers meet in a playoff here Sunday to determine the National Conference champion.

"It's pretty hard to beat a team three times in a season. I don't care who they are," Lombardi said.

The last time the two teams met, the Packers humiliated Baltimore, 42-27.

Vince Confident

Lombardi was confident the Packers would be up for the game but noted that the proud Colts will have the added incentive of revenge.

Lombardi also indicated he would welcome it if the Packers faced the same kind of blitzing tactics the Colts used last Saturday in beating Los Angeles, 20-17.

"Twenty-five times," said Lombardi who apparently counted the times the Colts sent line-backers or defensive backs crashing through the Ram line. "That's more than half the time blitzing."

Lombardi said the popular belief that the blitz bothers the passer is unfounded. He said it could affect the running game. In fact, Lombardi said, the blitz gives the passer an advantage by removing a defender from the secondary.

Ray Nitschke remained the Packers' only doubtful starter Thursday although he took part in drills for the first time this week. Nitschke was still limping from a pulled hamstring and Lombardi said he would not start Sunday unless his limp disappears.

Garrett Still in Doubt

Tennessee's Emanuel Signs With Dolphins

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Listening to the bidding at the East and West training fields makes these football practices sound like 3 p.m. on the floor of the Stock Exchange.

Some strong bidding won over Tennessee line-backer Frank Emanuel Thursday to the Miami Dolphins, a spokesman for the new American Football League franchise said.

No figures were announced by the AFL club that drafted the 6-foot-2, 225-pound Emanuel No. 2. But it probably was plenty to get him away from the Philadelphia Eagles, who picked him fourth in the National Football League draft.

Thursday night, Southern California All America Mike Garrett was on the phone with his lawyer talking over offers from Los Angeles of the NFL, Kansas City of the AFL, and the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League — the one that plays baseball.

Garrett won't make up his mind until after the baseball season finishes at USC next summer.

Big Money Offers
Garrett's teammates hope he won't get too distracted by big-money offers because they need him badly during the big-name East squad Dec. 31 at Kezar Stadium.

"Don't pull a hamstring," one West lineman yelled at him during the first workouts at the Stanford training camp.

Owner Fires Svare As Head Coach of Los Angeles Rams

John McKay Rumored to be Under Consideration for Vacated Post

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Christmas in reverse came early for young Harland Svare and today the Los Angeles Rams were looking for their eighth head coach since 1947.

President Daniel F. Reeves, expressing personal regret, said Svare's contract would not be renewed for 1966 with the Western cellar dweller in the National Football League.

The announcement, not entirely ly unexpected, was made Thursday, and promptly triggered the usual speculations on a successor to Svare.

Harland Svare

There have been recurring rumors that John McKay of the University of Southern California is under consideration. Whether McKay is considering the matter is not known.

Never Known to Duck
McKay, be it known, was never a man to duck a challenge.

Adding much spice to the talk was this: Halfback Mike Garrett, a McKay product. All-America and Heisman Trophy winner, is the No. 1 draft choice of the Rams. Garrett has not signed with the Rams nor the Kansas City Chiefs, who hold draft rights in the American Football League.

A so-called package deal involving McKay and Garrett, whom McKay calls the greatest football player he ever saw, is not an unreasonable conjecture.

Svare, handsome 35-year-old bachelor, issued a statement through Jack Teele, the Rams publicity director and a close personal friend.

In effect, Svare noted the philosophy of the pros, football or baseball: It isn't how you coach, but if you win.

In the Rams' case, it has been lose and lose and lose for more than a decade.

A prepared statement from Reeves read:

"It has been decided not to renew Harland Svare's contract for the 1966 season.

"We have several persons in mind as a possible replacement but no definite decision has been reached. It would be prejudicial to disclose the names of these persons.

Difficult Decision

"The decision to replace Harland was a most difficult one.

"While there were many millitating circumstances causing

felt that a fresh approach is necessary."

For the record, it may be noted that there was a warm personal relation between Svare and Reeves, the majority stockholder of the club.

Svare dictated a statement, relayed by Teele, which said:

"I'm very disappointed that we couldn't have won more football games. I have no regrets about the experience. I thoroughly enjoyed it.

"I thought we made some progress, but it's the nature of professional football that you must win.

"I have the highest respect for Dan Reeves and the Rams' organization, and I want to wish the team success.

"I don't think it will be too much longer before the Rams become a winner."

Special Units Hold Key for Baltimore '11'

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts will be looking for an extra special effort from their special teams Sunday in the playoff for the Western Conference championship of the National Football League.

The special teams are used by the pros to receive or defend on punts and kickoffs.

Baltimore's special teams, captained by Alex Hawkins, have set up several victories this season and helped preserve a 24-24 tie with Detroit.

With the Colts using converted halfback Tom Matte as quarterback in the playoff with Green Bay Packers at Green Bay, Baltimore's offense can use all the help it can get.

"The special teams will be more important than ever this week," Coach Don Shula said. "We hope they can give us good field position, or even punt some points on the board."

Typifies Play

Hawkins typifies the play of his squad members.

When the Colts are kicking, he dashes full throttle down the field, and more often than not makes the tackle. On the receiving end, he usually advises Alvin Haymond whether to make a fair catch and then mows down the first opponent to come his way.

"Field position is always important against Green Bay," Hawkins said. "The Packers have a controlled, disciplined defense. You don't get rich quick against them."

For the season, Baltimore's special teams have outgained the opposition on punt returns 11.7 yards to 7.6 yards per carry, and on kickoff returns 24.3 yards to 21.4.

Haymond is the chief difference. He has averaged 30.7 yards on 20 kickoff returns and 9.8 yards on 41 punts.

Might Be Week

"This might be the week Alvin goes all the way," Hawkins said. "He almost broke loose a couple times. Once he was open, and I ran into him."

The Packers kept the ball away from Haymond while whipping Baltimore 41-17 Dec. 2. When he did have a chance to run, Haymond said the Packers "swooped down on me like eagles."

"But Haymond promises to 'try a wee bit harder' this week, as he still seeks to run a kick back for a touchdown.

"If I do, the referee might as well go and get another football," he said. "The one I carry over is going to my girl friend."

Haymond has waited as long to get married as he has for the scoring runback. Shula asked him to postpone the original wedding date, which was one day before the recent Packer game.

The new date, Dec. 26, didn't quite fit in with the playoff game plans. Now, Alvin and Jo Ann Winchester have a choice. If the Colts win Sunday, the wedding will be Jan. 9. If Baltimore loses, it'll be Jan. 2.

Hadl Out to Impress Kemp in AFL Tilt

Top Quarterbacks Will Clash

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback John Hadl of the San Diego Chargers has a special reason to try to impress Buffalo quarterback Jack Kemp when the two meet in the American Football League championship game Sunday.

Kemp, the league's No. 4 passer, made the all-pro team and was voted the league's most valuable player by an AP panel.

Hadl was merely the league's No. 1 passer.

He completed 174 passes out of 347 attempts for a .501 percentage, 2,798 yards and 20 touchdowns.

10 Touchdowns

Kemp, on the other hand, completed 179 out of 391 for a .458 percentage, 2,368 yards and 10 touchdowns.

While Hadl was nailing down the passing title, the Chargers racked up an unprecedented sweep of all important team statistical categories.

The Chargers were one touchdown favorites to win the championship from the Bills as San Diego Coach Sid Gillman announced that rookie Gene Foster will replace Keith Lincoln as starting fullback.

Lincoln hurt his knee Dec. 12 and has been slowed since then. San Diego beat Buffalo 34-2 in their first encounter of the season. The second game ended in a 20-20 tie.

Packers Prepared to Spend Christmas Dinner at 'Home'

Colts Will be Arriving in Green Bay on Plane Tonight

COLTS WILL BE 5h

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — This is Christmas Eve . . . let's forget about football for a moment . . . and talk about, well, like:

The 40 Packer players will be "home" for Christmas dinner — at least in somebody's home.

The married players have invited the unmarried players into their homes for that traditional feast.

Year-Around Residents

Other married players will have their families come in for the weekend . . . Willie Davis' wife is coming up from Chicago with their two children. So is Mrs. Elijah Pitts, who will bring along their youngest.

The Bart Starrs, year-around residents of Green Bay, will host the Zeke Bratkowski's, including their three children, as well as singletons Marv Fleming and Tommy Crutcher.

Tom Brown, whose family stayed out in Maryland during the season, will join a teammate . . . but, and get this, he's having the wife come in the day after the playoff, which is real confidence in the Packers' ability to beat the Colts Sunday.

The "daddy" of the Packers — and in this case, chief Santa Claus — is Bob Skoronski, here a year-around resident, also, who has the most children — Bobby 8; Steve 6; Ron 5; and Patti 3.

(I'll be playing Santa Claus, all right, like every year," Skoronski said, "and they can't wait.")

Chartered Airliner

The Colts will spend Christmas Eve on their chartered airliner. They are scheduled to leave Baltimore at 7:30 tonight, Green Bay Time, and arrive at 10:30. The team will headquarter at the Northland Hotel.

Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Colts, will take his players and coaches out to Christmas dinner Saturday evening.

Little did the Colts think three weeks ago that they'd be spending Christmas in Green Bay. This is their first trip here this year since the 1965 Colt game was played in Milwaukee.

Both teams will practice Christmas Day but they'll work briefly — the usual Saturday warmup. The Packers will drill about 10 a.m. and the Colts will take the Oneida Street field at 1 p.m.

Select Brodie As Comeback Player of Year

49ers Quarterback Praises Teammates For Fine Protection

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Credit the whole team, not just me," declared San Francisco quarterback John Brodie, the man voted Comeback Player of the Year in the National Football League.

The 30-year-old forward passing ace added he was "pleased but surprised" at the honor accorded by The Associated Press.

Actually, Brodie's comeback started last year. After the 1962 season, he suffered a broken arm in an automobile accident and missed 11 games in 1963 when the arm was rebroken early in the season.

Team Records

Although the 49ers finished last in the Western Division in 1964, Brodie hit 193 passes in 391 throws for 2,498 yards and 14 touchdowns. Both the number of throws and number of completions were team records.

This past season he completed 242, a league record, of 391 for 3,112 yards and 30 touchdowns. "I had great protection," the 10-year pro veteran said. "Just look at the record. At one stretch I was thrown for a loss just once in four games."

Tommy McDonald, flanker for Los Angeles, was second to Brodie in the balloting by 42 newsmen in the NFL cities. Brodie had 12 votes and McDonald seven. John David Crow of San Francisco and Rudy Bukich of Chicago each had four.

Namath Contract Worth $427,000, Columnist Says

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Jet rookie quarterback Joe Namath's contract calls for $427,000 spread over several years, not the $400,000 generally publicized, a columnist

Dick Young said in the New York Daily News editions for Friday.

Young said Namath's contract, believed to be the highest in pro football history, calls for an annual salary of $25,000 for four years, with the final season, 1968, renegotiable upward for a total of $100,000.

He also had a $200,000 bonus spread over future dates, plus $30,000 in lawyer's fees and a $7,000 automobile. The contract also called for $10,000 annual salary each for two brothers and a brother-in-law, each for three years, to serve as scouts, for a total of $90,000.

Young also said that Carl McAdams of Oklahoma, recently signed by the Jets, has a contract calling for a total of $325,000, including a $200,000 bonus.

Giants Run for Passes

Daugherty Use Humor In Showing Off Squad

By BOB VOGES
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty possessed by an impish, Irish sense of humor, tried to show how bad his mighty defensive unit might look — on offense.

Daugherty held an open house practice Wednesday for fans who wanted a preview look at the No. 1 ranked Spartans, due to collide with UCLA in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

Daugherty first introduced his defense — "the No. 1 defensive team in the country."

Then he made the Green Giants run out to try to catch passes.

Middle guard Harold Lucas, who has slimmed lately to 294 pounds, was the first sent scurrying for a pass. Lucas, a hotly contested pro prospect, caught the ball in mid-stride.

500 Spectators

"He's agile, mobile and hostile," Daugherty warned over the public address system to some 500 spectators at the Brookside Park practice field.

"Would you ever believe he was one an 85 - pound weakling?" Daugherty asked.

"Of course that was when he was only two years old."

Bubba Smith, the 6-foot-7, 268-pound defensive end dropped his pass.

"That's the reason he's on defense," Daugherty said, explaining away a bad throw.

Daugherty made a point of showing that all his players aren't huge muscle-men. Co-Capt. Don Japinga, a slight 5-8 and 152 pounds, was sent out to chase a pass. To confuse him,

Detroit Farms Buntin, Hawks Obtain Thorn

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons announced the acquisition today of guard Charles Vaughn and forward John Tresvant from the St. Louis Hawks in exchange for guard Rod Thorn, and the farming out of former Michigan All America Bill Buntin.

Vaughn, who is 6-foot-3, is in his fourth season in the National Basketball Association. Tresvant, 6-7, has been used sparingly during the past two seasons by the Hawks.

"We had to do something," said Player-Coach Dave DeBusschere in Los Angeles. The Pistons have won only nine of their first 30 games.

"Vaughn is the hard-nosed type of player who should bolster our defense," said DeBusschere. "He's strong, aggressive and can score from the outside as well as close in."

"Tresvant will be used as a backup man to Joe Strawder at center in place of Buntin," DeBusschere added. He has shown he can rebound well, and that's something Buntin hasn't been doing lately."

Buntin, the team's No. 1 draft pick, will be listed as the team's 12th man.

He averaged 8.8 points and had 194 rebounds in 29 games with the Pistons. He has seen little service in recent weeks.

"Maybe this will shake up Buntin," said DeBusschere. "He was overweight when he reported three weeks late and he hasn't lost many pounds since."

Grabowski Will Start for East

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Fullback Jim Grabowski of Illinois, who was recently signed by the Green Bay Packers, is one of four players listed by the East coaches for the starting backfield in the East-West football game.

The rest of the backfield included: John Hankinson of Minnesota, quarterback; Bill Wolski of Notre Dame, halfback, and Karl Noonan of Iowa, flanker.

The game will be played in San Francisco on Dec. 31.

Anderson to Twilley Combination Expected to Lead Southerners

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A couple of all-star games, showcases for some of the nation's top individual collegiate football talent, serve as appetizers Saturday, Christmas Day, for next week's major bowl games.

Six All-Americans will be in action, three on each side, when the North plays the South in Miami. The other is the Blue-Gray, matching seniors from above and below the Mason-Dixon line, in Montgomery, Ala. Both games are Christmas afternoon.

Each is scheduled for national television. ABC will handle the North-South, with kickoff set for 4:30 p.m. EST. CBS has the Blue-Gray game, with kickoff 4 p.m. EST.

Those should serve to whet the nation's television appetite for the following week's main course, including the Rose, Cotton, Sugar, Orange and Gator Bowls.

The Line-up
Here's the line-up (all times Eastern Standard):

Friday, New Year's Eve
Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. — Georgia Tech, 6-3-1, vs. Texas Tech, 8-2, 2 p.m.
Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. — Texas Western, 7-3, vs. Texas Christian, 6-4, 4 p.m.
East-West All-Star at San Francisco, 4:45 p.m.

Saturday, New Year's Day
Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. — Michigan State, 10-0, vs. UCLA, 7-2-1, 5 p.m.
Cotton Bowl at Dallas — Arkansas, 10-0, vs. Louisiana State, 7-3, 2 p.m.
Sugar Bowl at New Orleans — Missouri, 7-2-1, vs. Florida, 7-3, 2 p.m.
Orange Bowl at Miami — Nebraska, 10-0, vs. Alabama, 8-1-1, 8 p.m.

The North-South Shrine Game always has been a wide-open, free-scoring affair built on gambling, explosive offenses. And the 18th annual game in Miami Christmas Day shapes up as another in the series.

Playing a key role in such a forecast is the presence on the South's team of Bill Anderson and Howard Twilley, the combination that broke all the passing and receiving records at Tulsa this past season.

The South is coached by Tulsa's Glenn Dobbs, who also will have running back Roger Bird of Kentucky and wingback George Pearce of William and Mary in the offensive line-up.

He also has two fierce linebackers, Tommy Nobis of Tefas and Ed Weisacosky of Miami. Nobis, Weisacosky and Twilley were All-America choices.

North Coach Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame counters with two All-Americans from his own team, guard Dick Arrington and defensive halfback Nick Rassas, and Purdue tackle Karl Singer.

He will open with either Ken Lucas of Pittsburgh or Don Unverferth of Ohio State at quarterback. Sam Price of Illinois will be at half, Dave McNaughton of Penn State at full and Jim Todd of Ball State at wingback.

Goodrich and West Pace Lakers' Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Detroit Pistons are negotiating for manpower to bring them out of their National Basketball Association slump, says player-coach Dave DeBusschere.

He appeared crestfallen after his Pistons were beaten by the Los Angeles Lakers 122-112 on the sharp-shooting of Gail Goodrich and Jerry West, who scored 25 points each.

Said DeBusschere in the locker room:

"We are looking for a few guys to make up for the slack left by the drafting of Terry Dischinger, my leading scorer, and the banning of Reggie Harding, my leading rebounder."

The win helped Los Angeles keep command of the NBA Western Division, 1½ games ahead of Baltimore.

Madison Skier Named to U. S. Jumping Squad

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Four men were named Thursday night to the U.S. ski jumping team by the squad's coaches, following a training camp here and at Washburn, Wis.

The four are John Balfanz, Minneapolis; National Senior Champion Dave Hicks, Duluth; Dave Norby, Madison, Wis., and Randy Garrettsen, Denver, Colo.

Garrettsen was named to replace Gene Kotlarek, Duluth, who declined for business reasons.

Ski Instructor Aids Pupils With Use of Television Set

By DON GUY
ASCUTNEY, Vt. (AP) — You too can be a television star in one easy lesson.

A ski lesson.

Just hop on those slippery slats and let yourself go.

Ski instructor Jon Putnam is pioneering do-it-yourself television as a teaching aid on the ski slopes.

He gives his pupils lessons, then films them as they practice turns. At the bottom of the hill they stop and see themselves in action with a playback on a TV screen mounted on a toboggan.

"Gosh, now I see what I am doing wrong" is a typical reaction from an enthusiastic pupil.

The portable Japanese television system used videotape to play back the action filmed seconds earlier.

"Instant television" is a great help in ski instruction, Putnam said.

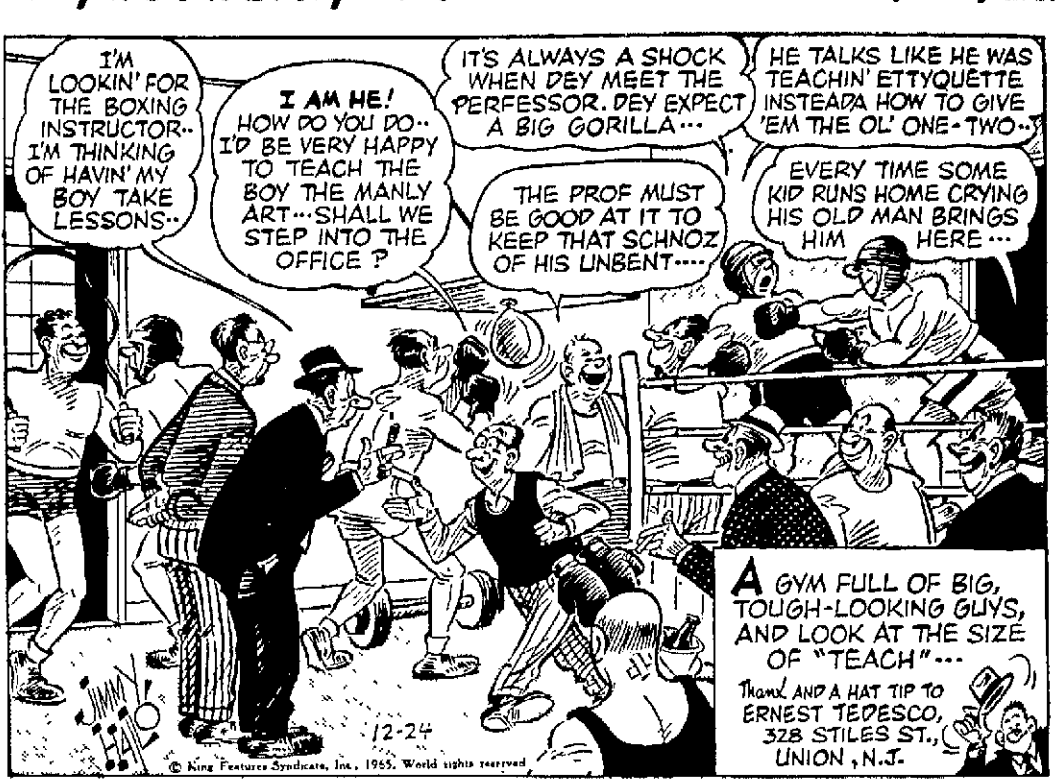

"Words are fine but when a beginner sees himself in action then he really gets the picture — fast."

Putnam's wife Dotti takes over teaching young children. They take television for grant and have no inhibitions about being filmed.

However, most children would rather ski than see.

Packers' Henry Jordan Won't be Playing With Kids on Christmas Day

By KEN HARTNETT
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packer tackle Henry Jordan won't be coming out to play with the kids on the day after Christmas. He'll be busy elsewhere with Jim Parker and the Baltimore Colts.

And Olive, Henry's pretty wife, won't be the hostess at the usual Christmas Day party at the Jordan home.

She'll be visiting friends with the Jordan's three children leaving Henry most of Christmas afternoon and evening to relax alone undisturbed by the din of toys and the squalls of holiday-tired children.

Jordan, so gentle he's afraid to let his 7-year-old son play football, will be slowly slipping

Vanderbilt in Eighth Straight Win of Season

Minnesota '5' Falls To Utah State; Bradley Wins 10th

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

This could be the season the Vanderbilt Commodores go all the way and win the national collegiate basketball championship.

The Southeastern Conference champions reached the quarter-finals of the NCAA tournament last March before losing an 87-85 thriller to Michigan.

So far this season the Commodores, No. 4 in The Associated Press poll, have been winning the close ones, always the mark of a champion.

They made it eight victories in eight starts with a 59-58 squeaker over Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., Thursday night. Sophomore Bo Wyenandi sank a free throw with 10 seconds left for the winning point.

The second-ranked St. Joseph's Hawks of Philadelphia dropped their second straight on their invasion of the Rocky Mountain area, losing to Wyoming 99-92 at Yarmie, Wyo.

The sixth-ranked Minnesota Gophers were knocked out of the unbeaten class by Utah State 87-72 at Logan, Utah, but unbeaten Bradley, No. 5 in the AP poll, made it 10 in a row with an 83-68 romp over North Dakota at Peoria, Ill. The other teams in the AP Top Ten were idle.

Seven Straight

Unbeaten Utah made it seven straight with a 108-57 breeze over the Air Force Academy at Salt Lake City and Colorado State U. rebounded from its first defeat at the hands of Seattle to whip Idaho State 95-72 at Fort Collins, Colo.

Kansas also rebounded from its two defeats by UCLA and Southern California last week in Los Angeles to whip Ohio State 81-68 at Columbus, Ohio.

Stanford and San Francisco scored home-court victories over Louisiana State 91-69 and St. Louis 87-69, respectively. Butler, which trounced Michigan on Wednesday, rallied to edge Oklahoma 65-63 at Indianapolis.

Offense Key For South All-Star '11'

Northerners Stress Defense for Game On Christmas Day

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The South All-Stars in Saturday's North-South college football game continue to emphasize offense in drills for their Christmas Day meeting with Ara Parseghian's defense-minded northerners.

South coach Glenn Dobbs, who has the All-America passing combination of Tulsa stars Billy Anderson and Howard Twilley to call on, added Kentucky's Roger Bird, William and Mary's George Pearce and other Bob Duviey of West Virginia or Chuck Drullis of Duke to the list of targets who will be in his starting line-up.

Anderson is expected to alternate with another West Virginian, Allen McCune, in running the South offense.

When Dobbs goes on the ground, he will likely look to the bone crunching talents of Miami's Russ Smith, Tulsa's Bob Daugherty, and a third West Virginia performer, 230-pound Dick Leftridge.

Dobbs' assistants, F. A. Dry and Bob Griffin, will shore up the South line with Texas' Tommy Nobis and Louisville's Doug Buffone as linebackers, Miami's Smith and Billy Clay of Ole Miss as cornerbacks, and Wake Forest ace Joe Carazo in the deep safety.

In the North defensive line, Parseghian has a combination of toughness Paul Faul of Minnesota, Bill Ridder of Ohio State, Ken Hollister of Indiana, John Carber of Army and Bob Bruggers of Minnesota are dedicated to making the going rough for Anderson and the Rebel running backs.

Name Pittman To Tulane Post

Texas Assistant Elevated to Head Coaching Job

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jim Pittman, chosen for the monumental task of rejuvenating Tulane's slumping football fortunes, faces his job with a simple statement.

It might turn out to be the biggest understatement that Pittman, an articulate, 40-year-old Mississippi native, ever made.

Tulane announced Thursday that Pittman, chief assistant under Darrell Royal at Texas, would become head coach immediately with a five-year pact.

"I'm really looking forward to the job with lots of enthusiasm," Pittman said at his Austin, Tex., home. "I think it is quite a challenge and I'm ready to accept it."

Pittman, a Mississippi State graduate who has worked for Royal 13 years at Mississippi State, Washington and Texas, succeeds Tommy O'Boyle, who resigned under fire Nov. 24 with one year left on his five year contract.

O'Boyle left on the heels of a 62-0 rout by Louisiana State, Tulane's arch-rival. He had become head coach four years earlier after his predecessor, former Notre Dame All-American Andy Pilney, had been conquered 62-0 by LSU. In the interval, O'Boyle won six games, losing 33 and tying one. The Greenies were 2-8 this past campaign.

Vince Says He Had Serious Talks About Falcon Job

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Coach Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers says it was "common knowledge" that he and the new Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League spoke seriously about the head coaching job in Atlanta.

"The talks were quite serious on both sides," Lombardi said Wednesday.

The fact that Lombardi was under consideration for the job had been rumored for some time, but there never had been confirmation to lend substance to the rumors, at least not by Green Bay spokesmen.

The rumors stopped when Lombardi signed a new long-term contract as coach and general manager at Green Bay.

The new contract runs for another eight years.

Daugherty Wins Writers' Award

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty has been named National Football Coach of the Year.

His selection by the Football Writers Association of America was announced Thursday by Bert McGrane, association secretary.

Runnerup for the honor is Daugherty's Rose Bowl rival, Tommy Prothro of UCLA.

Strike at Ripon Firm Continues As Talks Fail

Gift Contributions Pour in for Union Workers' Families

RIPON — The strike at the Speed Queen Division plant, McCraw Edison Co. by Local 1327 of the United Steelworkers continued today as union and company officials remained adamant in their bargaining positions. The strike began Nov. 3.

James Despins, Green Bay, federal mediator, was unsuccessful Tuesday in his attempts to arrange a joint meeting between union and company representatives.

Despins talked separately to company and union representatives for several hours Tuesday morning. Plans for a joint bargaining session fell through after a luncheon recess when both sides indicated they had not changed their positions.

Load of Toys

Wednesday, the union local gave out turkey, picnic hams, and other items for Christmas dinners to members of the striking local. These were purchased with gifts received by the local from other union locals at Milwaukee, Portage, Green Bay and Ripon. One local, of the Textile Workers Union at Portage cut down its own Christmas party in order to send $200 to the striking Ripon local.

A load of toys for children was received from locals in the Milwaukee area last week and distributed to union members Wednesday. The toys had been chosen for different age groups.

In addition to the gifts received from other union locals, local businessmen, merchants and individuals have given union members cash and food contributions. Food collected by steelworker locals in the Milwaukee area and in Illinois has been received by the

Bobby Hull Wins Canadian Award

TORONTO (AP) — Bobby Hull, the National Hockey League's most valuable player, was named Canada's outstanding male athlete today.

Hull, ace of the Chicago Black Hawks, edged track star Bill Crothers by nine points in the balloting by 141 sports editors and sportscasters in the annual Canadian Press poll.

Hull received 53 first-place votes and 280 points to 37 and 221 for Crothers, a middle distance runner who easily won the award last year. Jean Beliveau of the NHL's Montreal Canadiens was third with 87.

Jim Brown Says '65 Season Has Been 'My Most Enjoyable'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jim Brown, fullback for the National Football League champion Cleveland Browns, says this season has been "my most enjoyable" in professional football.

Brown, who was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player in an Associated Press poll, said Thursday there were a number of reasons for his picking the 1965 season as his most enjoyable.

"Communication was one thing," he said. "It's been so good with the owner, the coaches and the other players. . . It's just a real good, friendly atmosphere."

"There was another thing, too. This season I had a chance to catch passes. . . This year I was running patterns and I enjoyed it. I believe it helped us in some games, too."

Explaining Brown's new role as a pass receiver, Collier said Paul Warfield's injury before the season started had something to do with featuring the running backs as receivers.

Where Christianity Began

BETHLEHEM, Jordan (AP) — In this little hilltop town where Christianity began, Christmas comes with the brassy blare of military bands, the clattering hoofs of prancing Arab stallions and the solemn music of hymns and chants.

And beneath the stone floor of the oldest church in the world, an olive wood doll of the infant Jesus lies in the manger where Christ was born.

The cave, which tradition says was the stable of Mary and Joseph, still exists — under the massive Church of the Nativity — but Christmas Eve in the Bethlehem of today bears little resemblance to the quiet night when wondering shepherds heard "glad tidings of great joy."

Pilgrims Crowd Town

The candle-lit stable is now sheathed with marble and hung with rich brocades, a policeman stands guard inside, and thousands of tourists and pilgrims crowd the town for the pageantry of Christmas in the Holy Land.

Christmas Not Holy For Men in Battle

Sandbag Chapels in Viet Nam Like Those in All Previous Wars

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — "Sleep in heavenly peace, sleep in heavenly peace."

Tonight under the timeless stars, in hundreds of sandbag chapels under the rubber trees, in the lonely special forces camps deep in Viet Cong country, in countless jungle clearings around the makeshift altars on the hood of a jeep, the sweet silver of high pitched Vietnamese voices will unite with sturdy, rough American baritone in the beauty of "Silent Night."

But for the American fighting man away from home in time of war, Christmas has seldom been a silent night or a holy night.

For the soldiers in his foxhole peering across a darkened perimeter and listening for the rattle of sniper fire, "peace on earth" is a pleasant fantasy printed on a pretty postcard from home.

Christmas Shoppers

At 6 p.m. last Christmas Eve, as last-minute shoppers hurried along Saigon's gaily decorated streets, a thunderous explosion shattered windows within a five-block radius. Two hundred pounds of plastic, planted in a Jeep by Viet Cong terrorists, rocked the seven-story Brink officers' quarters, an American billet for majors and colonels located within a block of the main shopping section. Two persons were killed and 107 wounded, 65 of them Americans.

The same silent stars that Bethlehem looked down on, streets littered with dozens of American servicemen and dozens more Vietnamese women and children, maimed and bleeding amid a rubble of shattered glass and twisted tinsel.

The peace of Christmas had vanished in a bursting bomb.

Whine of Artillery

Down through the years in America's wars, the same silent stars have echoed to the mournful whine of artillery in a snow-heavy sky, the tramp of marching feet along lonely roads, the dying notes of a distant bugle echoing across scenes of similar havoc.

Christmas night, 1776.

Soft in the bitter cold night, oars muffled, lamps out, the boats move out from McKonkey's Ferry into the ice-choked Delaware River. A snow-laden northwest wind, howling down from Bowman's Hill, molds the great tunic around the shoulders of Gen. George Washington, still looking for his first major victory after taking over the battered Continental Army.

"The game is almost up," he had written his half-brother, Lawrence, a few days before. This, the surprise attack on the Hessian garrison at Trenton, tattered glass and twisted tinsel.

By 3 a.m. the last boat has made it to the New Jersey side of the river. By 8 a.m., Lt. James Monroe, later to become the fifth president of the new United States, is taking the lead company of a Virginia Regiment down King Street. Victory without a shot being fired.

Yule With Lincoln

Christmas Day, 1861. Abraham Lincoln, drawn and gaunt, paces the uncarpeted corridor outside the Green Room, where a congressional committee on the conduct of the war is meeting to decide whether his wife, the tormented Mary Todd Lincoln, is a security risk. A Kentuckian, she has a brother and three half-brothers in gray. A favorite sister is married to a Confederate brigadier general. Upstairs in a bedroom, Willie Lincoln, 10, the grave, scholarly child too much loved by his parents, lies dying of a fever. In less than two months, he will be dead in the Green Room, and Mrs. Lincoln will never enter it again.

The snow falling outside all but blots out the tents of the Army of the Potomac, which has yet to take on the enemy after the disaster at Bull Run. Its commander, George B. McClellan, sticks to his tent, stricken with typhoid fever.

General's Letter

Seventy miles west, in the GIs in Winter White, slogging through snow in Belgium as the war in Europe drew to a close in 1944, are spending another Christmas on the world's battlefields. Less than a decade later, a new generation of American soldiers introduced Korean refugees to Santa Claus in battle green. (AP Wirephoto)

Shenandoah Valley, Gen. Thomas Jonathan Jackson is writing a letter to his wife at a small table in an upstairs bedroom of a farmhouse in Winchester, Va. The general, whose 1st Virginia Brigade stood like a stone wall at Manassas, tells her that, despite the early Southern victories and despite what others are saying, the war will be a long one and his heart goes out to her at Christmas.

Before the Christmas of 1863 comes around, Stonewall Jackson will be in another tiny bedroom, at Chandler House, Guinea Station, uttering his last words: "Let us cross over the river and rest under the shade of the trees."

Candy for Children

Christmas Day, 1917. Four battalions of the 1st Infantry Division, predecessors of the same Big Red 1 now in Viet Nam, are a thin line along the frozen Marine-Rhine Canal between Luneville and Nancy.

Late in the day, after a Christmas dinner of bully beef and stale bread, two companies tramp down the snowy road to rig up a Christmas tree in the little town of Gondrecourt and distribute candy to sad-eyed French orphans. Coming home in the gathering dusk, German artillery hisses out of a dun-colored sky and the American Doughboy contributes casualties to the war to end all wars. The mayor of Gondrecourt sends his regrets and the heartfelt thanks of the nuns at the orphanage.

Lethal Presents

Christmas Day, 1944. For the first time in a week, the skies clear over the small snow-blanketed village of Bastogne, Belgium, and the Luftwaffe drops some lethal Christmas presents on the besieged paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division. Forefathers of the same "Screaming Eagles" now in the jungles of Viet Nam, the 10,000 "Battered Bastards of Bastogne" have held out against three German divisions, numbering 45,000 troops, and equipped with mighty Tiger tanks. Their stubborn defense is frustrating Field Marshal Karl Gerd von Rundstedt's brilliant plan to hurl 30 divisions through the Ardennes Forest in a last-ditch effort to cross the Meuse River and turn north in a surprise strike at Antwerp. Already the American lines have been severed, one division is destroyed, two are in full flight, but Bastogne refuses to surrender.

Then in Korea

Christmas Day, 1950. A Navy recon plane from the carrier Princeton looks down on the long line of ships inching out into the Sea of Japan, nose to tail like a long line of elephants, from the smoldering port city of Hungnam. The railroad tracks

American Legion Gives Money to CARE for Vietnamese People

NEW YORK (AP) — The national commander of the American Legion has presented a check of $5,000 to CARE for use "as a gesture of friendship and compassion for the South Vietnamese people."

L. Elson James said the money, contributions from legionnaires and auxiliary members, will be used to provide food, drugs, farming and carpentry tools. He said the legion hopes to raise considerably more.

Youth Makes Holiday Plans

Ronnie Baker Last Year Fled to Save Cancerous Leg

By DIAL TORGERSON
VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — Ronnie Baker wasn't making any plans last Christmas. This year he is.

Last December doctors told Ronnie he'd die if they didn't amputate his cancerous left leg. Rather than face the operation, Ronnie 16, ran away from home.

He got as far as Flagstaff, Ariz., changed his mind, came home, and, last New Year's Eve, underwent the operation.

It was a success. Ronnie, fitted with a prosthetic leg, can walk, climb stairs, drive a car, and hold a parttime job as a painter. He has gained 30 pounds since his operation.

Doctors feel sure they eradicated all the cancer when they amputated Ronnie's leg above the knee, although they say it'll be years before they're positive. Ronnie undergoes periodic checks at a clinic.

As he helped his mother and two half-sisters decorate their Christmas tree Thursday, Ronnie laid plans.

"This year, mother," he told Mrs. Lois Eisenbeiss, 52, "I'm going to go out for New Year's Eve."

Wisconsin Man in Viet Nam Officer Sees Men Die, Queries Backing in U. S.

"I knelt beside him with a clipping from the newspaper. "When I was back in America," the officer writes, "I thought I knew peace. But I didn't really know it. . . until I saw the lack of it."

The words were written by a wounded Army officer, Lt. Bill Schiebler, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schiebler, Port Edwards, and formerly of Appleton.

They appeared in print as Lt. Schiebler described in an open letter printed Dec. 2 in his hometown newspaper, the Wisconsin Rapids Daily Tribune, how he felt as an Army officer, watching his men die, with the knowledge that "our own countrymen at home weren't going to back us."

Wounded at Plei Me
The Army officer was himself wounded in the right foot and knee Nov. 9 in the battle of Plei Me. He was in an Army hospital in An-Khe on Thanksgiving Day when he wrote his open letter.

The officer had received recognition by the Associated Press when he was photographed interrogating a Viet Cong prisoner. His parents recognized and has other relatives in the their son and sent him the Appleton area.

A 1963 graduate at St. John University, Collegeville, Minn., where he earned his commission in the ROTC, Schiebler has been on active duty since April, 1961. He has been in Viet Nam since mid-September.

He is the grandson of Charles Schiebler, 1122 W. Spencer St., prisoner. His parents recognized and has other relatives in the their son and sent him the Appleton area.

Citizens Urged To Use Scenic Easements

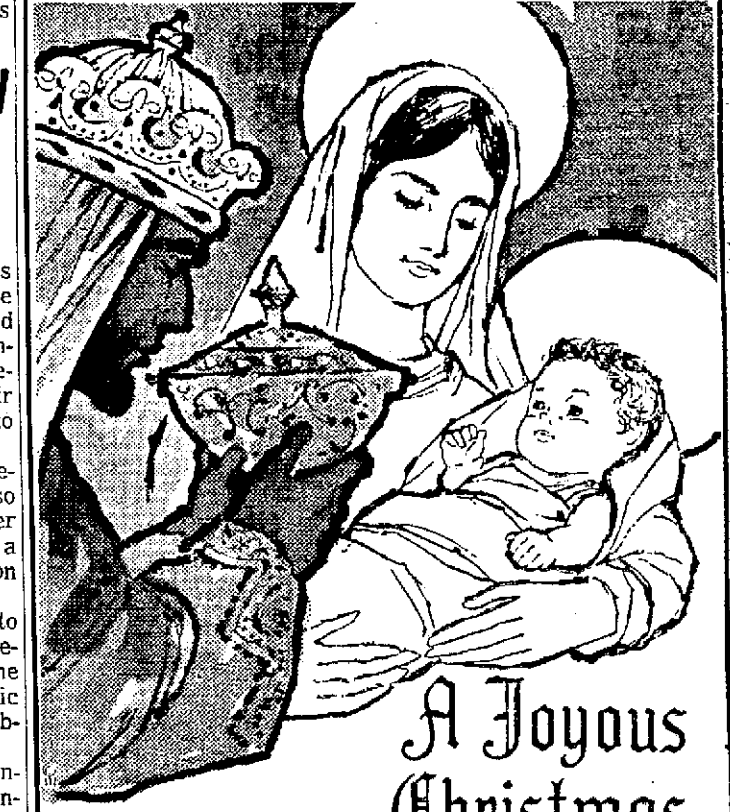

WASHINGTON (AP)—Citizens and government officials were urged Thursday by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to make imaginative use of the "scenic easement" device to lower their taxes and also to contribute to natural beauty.

"Many taxpayers could reduce their tax burden and also preserve the beauty of a river bank, a scenic overlook, or a choice rural landscape," Nelson said.

"We have not even begun to make adequate use of this device, which leaves land on the tax rolls but protects its scenic qualities for the long-range public benefit."

Citizens computing their income taxes, he said, might consider the tax advantages in such spirited donations.

Scenic easements often are negotiated between property owners and units of government. He said Wisconsin, for instance, as bought easements along highways, lakes and streams. The owner agrees not to build certain kinds of structures on the land or to harm its natural beauty.

Our wish—that the meaning of Christmas be deeper, its friendships stranger and all hearts filled with its peace and good will.

Communists Will Keep Truce for 12 Hours, Vow No Offensive Actions

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The armed might of America and its allies in Viet Nam was put under wraps today to start a 30-hour Christmas cease-fire. The Communists said they would observe the truce for 12 hours.

The truce orders went to infantrymen in the jungles, to Air Force units that had been striking in both North and South Viet Nam and to 7th Fleet carriers plying the South China Sea in support of the ballooning war effort.

The truce went into effect at 6 p.m., which was 5 a.m. Eastern Standard Time.

The Communist Viet Cong announced three times on their radio today that they would undertake no offensive action or acts of terrorism from Christmas Eve, one hour after the Allied cease-fire started, until 7 a.m. Saturday, 17 hours before the U.S.-South Vietnamese truce period ends.

Offered Truce
The Viet Cong had offered their 12-hour truce in a broadcast Dec. 7. The Americans and the South Vietnamese countered with their longer cease-fire order earlier this week.

It remained to be seen if the truce worked. But around the world there were expressions of hope that it would be extended after Christmas and would pave the way to peace negotiations.

All American and Allied units were on the alert and had orders to react sharply in self-defense. The American cease-fire was confined only to a prohibition against initiating any new offensive actions. Disengagements from conflict or defense against any obvious threat were clearly within the discretion of field commanders obliged to protect and preserve their men.

All branches of the Allied forces were keyed up, however, to observe what happens at the end of the Viet Cong moratorium.

um while the American truce still was to be in effect for another 17 hours.

Hair-Line Decisions
Officials conceded this might call for some split-second hair-line decisions.

As of midnight Christmas, however, the U.S. forces will be free to resume "normal operations," a senior Army spokesman said.

"We shall resume normal operations at 2400 hours Dec. 25 unless we are forced to do so before that," the officer said.

While the Communists repeated their announcement of a 12-hour truce, neither North Viet Nam's Hanoi radio nor the Viet Cong radio made any mention of the longer period proclaimed by the other side.

U.S. officials in Washington expected the truce to hold for the first 12 hours. They hoped the Communists would prolong it until Christmas midnight. But they believed the war would resume in full violence after that.

Bloody 24 Hours
Officials said the 24 hours leading up to the truce hour were as bloody as ever.

U.S. B52s from Guam dropped their bomb loads at dawn today 80 miles south of Saigon, continuing the softening up of suspected Viet Cong hideouts.

Communist guerrillas launched a heavy mortar attack during the night against Lac Son, about 30 miles south of Da Nang, and overran two of its outlying posts. They inflicted heavy casualties on the defenders, but the main post held out.

South Vietnamese officers reported 100 Viet Cong bodies in the area after artillery and planes came to the aid of the post. The Viet Cong were reported withdrawing at daybreak.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces claimed 172 Viet Cong killed in three other operations Thursday in the central highlands. One American wounded and light Vietnamese casualties were reported.

Fire Rockets
Firing rockets and machine guns, helicopters of the 1st Air Cavalry Division made repeated attacks in the Phu Cat area, 12 miles northwest of Wui Nhon.

Pope Paul VI Delivers his Christmas message — an appeal to all mankind to "heed the message of peace which Christmas brings" — at Vatican City Thursday. In his new plea for peace, the pontiff said "no one ought to shirk just and sincere negotiations to restore order and friendship." (AP Wirephoto)

Exert Greater Impact

By GERALD I. MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI did not mention any country or belligerents in calling for "just and sincere negotiations to restore order and friendship" in his annual Christmas message Thursday night, but he left no doubt he had Viet Nam in mind.

The spiritual leader of the world's half-billion Roman Catholics often does not use such specifics in his statements.

Several considerations induce him to speak in general terms. It is felt at the Vatican that by using specific references sparingly, the pontiff can exert far greater impact on occasions when he feels that a precise and blunt reference is needed.

Last Sunday
He referred to Viet Nam by name when he called for a Christmas truce last Sunday. The papacy strives for neutrality in political disputes. It tries to avoid any impression of favoring or opposing one side on political grounds.

The Vatican does not want to give any side in a dispute any propaganda opportunities to claim Vatican support, whether moral or political, by seizing on names the Pope might voice.

If there should be any doubts about what or whom the Pope means in some of his speeches, Vatican sources can usually be counted on to spell it out privately.

These considerations are reflected in the Pope's Christmas message.

First Good

"Peace is, in fact, the first and chief good of any society," he said "It is based on justice, freedom and order; it opens the way to every other value in human life."

"And so now, at this very moment, we are making a new plea for peace — and this, not simply because peace is a good thing in itself, but also because it is a good which is in danger today."

"Fresh schemes, which the tragic experiences of the last war had given rise to, are now joined by old and deep-rooted nationalistic tendencies, along with newer ideologies of subversion and domination."

Human Brotherhood

"Arms, ever more powerful and dreadful, become, as it were, the only guarantee of a treacherous and precarious peace, to the detriment of a sense of justice and human brotherhood among peoples."

"No one ought to set about disturbing the peace of others by means of underhanded schemes and contrived disorder. No one ought to force his neighbor, and today we are all neighbors, to resort to armed defense. And no one ought to shirk just and sincere negotiation to restore order and friendship."

Road Conditions Hazardous as Yule Traffic Toll Grows

Bus Accident on Icy Oregon Mountain Highway Kills 12

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Millions of motorists heading for the highways today in the first part of the extended Christmas weekend were warned of hazardous driving conditions in many areas.

Traffic accidents in the early hours of the holiday period killed at least 80 persons, including 12 in a Greyhound bus which went off an icy highway north of Medford, in southern Oregon.

The count of traffic deaths started at 6 p.m. (local time) Thursday. The National Safety Council estimated that at the end of the 78-hour holiday period at midnight Sunday between 560 and 660 persons may die in traffic accidents.

Over Embankment

A state police officer at Medford said the bus went over an embankment on Interstate 5, going over a ditch and fence. Thirty persons were reported injured. The bus was en route from Spokane, Wash., to San Francisco, and had stopped at Portland.

The council terms this Christmas weekend the most dangerous holiday period of any year.

Traffic deaths during last year's three-day Christmas holiday totaled 578. The record for a three-day Christmas period is 609 set in 1955. The highest toll for any Christmas, or any holiday, was 706 in a four-day Yuletide period.

Administration Source

Tax Hike Decision Not Yet Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite recurring rumbles of a 1966 tax boost to pay for the Viet Nam buildup, an authoritative government source said today that no such decision has been made—even tentatively.

Other administration officials said their private judgment was that President Johnson is unlikely to ask for higher taxes and that Congress—in an election year—would be even less likely to enact them.

None of the sources would be quoted by name, since the question is strictly up to the President. But at least one of the sources could have an advisory voice in the decision.

This source said published reports on the likelihood of a tax increase are "definitely premature." The White House itself also used the "premature" label when similar forecasts were made a few weeks ago; a spokesman said no serious study was being given the proposal.

Important Objection

Officials said an important objection to a tax increase, even a temporary one, is the grave possibility that it could topple the five-year business expansion into a recession.

The alternative—if big deficits and their inflationary consequences are to be avoided—is a deep cutback in civilian spending, including sharp cutbacks in Johnson's own "Great Society" programs.

There are many indications that the President has chosen the latter course. Reports from various agencies indicate that Johnson is demanding deeper cuts than ever before in planned out-lays for space, health, welfare and the lower-priority programs of the defense establishment.

Held in Check
While it is doubtful that such savings can come close to matching the prospective multi-billion-dollar increase in spending on the Vietnamese war, some officials believe that price pressures nevertheless can be held in reasonable check.

Meanwhile, official hopes remain alive that a negotiated cease-fire or settlement of the Vietnamese fighting can be brought about in time to permit a cutback in the planned American commitment of men and money.

Mark Birth of Prince of Peace

World Tension Mars Yuletide

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
As the Christian world prepared today to observe Christmas, war and tension once more marred the celebration of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

In Viet Nam, both the United States and its allies on one side and the Communists on the other announced the start of a Christmas truce—30 hours on the American side and 12 on the Communist. But the 24 hours before were as bloody as ever, and U.S. officials expected the war to resume in full violence after midnight Christmas.

India and Pakistan stood entrenched in hostile positions along their border, deadlocked in the Kashmir dispute. India also confronted the menace of Communist China, whose border troops have been involved in recent shooting incidents with Indian patrols.

But, as always, there were prayers and hopes for peace.

Pope Paul VI in his annual Christmas broadcast appealed for peace negotiations in Viet Nam.

In Viet Nam, Francis Cardinal Spellman flew by helicopter to bring Yuletide greetings to troops of the U.S. Army 1st Division.

Throughout South Viet Nam, U.S. troops planned parties for Vietnamese children around their encampments. Americans at home had sent vast stores of toys, clothes and Christmas goodies for the little Vietnamese.

Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky of South Viet Nam issued a Christmas message expressing "respect and gratefulness" for the sacrifices of the U.S., Australian, New Zealand and Korean forces that have joined the fight against the Viet Cong.

In the quiet hills of the Holy Land, 15,000 Christians were expected to visit Bethlehem, where Christ was born.

In Berlin, thousands of West Berliners passed through the Communist wall to bring Christmas cheer and gifts to relatives in East Berlin.

Visitor Finds Christmas Same in U. S.

CLINTONVILLE — To an Australian who is in his graduate year at St. Louis Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. the celebration of Christmas here is much like it is in his home of Adelaide, Australia, except for the weather.

Peter Kriewaldt, who intends to become a minister, is spending the holidays with a distant relative, Charles Mack, 80 Röhner St.

The 24-year-old Australian's grandfather, Emil Kriewaldt, was born in Pella (Shawano County) so he is visiting distant cousins while here for the holidays.

Church Service

The emphasis is very much on church services in Australia, during this season, he remarked. Kriewaldt was scheduled to speak at the 6 and 8:30 p.m. Christmas Eve services at St. Martin Lutheran Church.

Waupaca Jail Delay Worries Committee

Satisfactory Plan, Bid Still Not Received by Building Unit; Meeting With Architect Slated

WAUPACA — Delays in obtaining a satisfactory plan and bid for the new Waupaca County jail are becoming a major concern of the building committee.

Bids for the new 34-cell jail were opened Nov. 16. Low bid was $423,495, considerably more than what had been expected by the committee.

Original cost estimates were $318,000, but after the first design plans were approved by the committee, the square footage of the building was increased by 2,000 feet and more office space was included in the basement of the structure.

After the bids were opened committee members thought a figure of $340,000 would be fair. Bids were turned over to Architect Robert Surplice, Green Bay, with instructions to negotiate with low bidders.

A meeting was to have been scheduled within a few weeks.

Participants in Jail, Hospital After Fight At Oneida Tavern

Two Hospitalized, One Held After Bar Brawl Thursday

ONEIDA — Two men are in a Green Bay hospital today and one is in jail following a tavern brawl here Thursday night in which angle irons, cue sticks, pop bottles and beer glasses were used.

About 15 persons, both men and women, reportedly took part in the battle at Danforth's Bar about 7 p.m. Police were summoned from Brown County, Outagamie County and the Town of Oneida to handle the fight that apparently started after a group of five white men walked into the tavern and got into an argument with several Indians.

Most of those involved in the fight were from the Green Bay, DePere and Oneida areas, authorities said.

One Charged
Only one person, a 25-year-old DePere man, has been charged so far, but complaints probably will be signed against several more after further investigation, according to Outagamie County authorities.

The DePere man is being held in the Outagamie County jail on charges of disorderly conduct and assault and battery.

The two men in St. Vincent Hospital, today, are Fredmond Hill, 26, route 1, Oneida, with multiple cuts about the head and wrist, and John H. Davis, 22, route 1, West DePere, with scalp cuts and a back injury.

Although Davis was listed in only fair condition early this morning, his condition reportedly has improved and the conditions of both men now are listed as good.

Hill was taken to the hospital by Muehl's Ambulance. Authorities report he lost a lot of blood.

Treated, Released
Treated and released from St. Vincent was Reuben Lasee, 24, 217 Grant St., DePere, who received a scalp laceration.

Several other persons, including women, received lesser injuries, mostly cuts and bruises, authorities said.

Most of the persons in the bar when the fight broke out became involved, police said. Although order was restored in a short time, police worked for two and a half hours questioning witnesses and attempting to determine how the brawl began.

Brown County and Green Bay police stopped five men in a car at 12th and Ninth Streets in Green Bay a short time after the fight and questioned them about their part in the incident.

Weapons used in the brawl were confiscated by Outagamie County police.

Patrolman Has Hysterical Effect On Woman Driver

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Patrolman C. A. Daniels stopped an attractive woman, 28, because her car was traveling 37 miles per hour in a 20-mile zone. "When I started writing out the ticket," he said, "she started screaming, cursing and pulling out her hair."

Then she fainted. Daniels called firemen and an ambulance. The young woman was revived and sent on her way with a traffic ticket.

This happened to Daniels about the same time last year too.

God's Christmas Gift

Dear Joey.

Your mother wants me to explain to you what Christmas is really all about. She says you didn't seem quite satisfied with her explanation. I'm not so sure uncles are any better at explaining such matters than mothers, or pastor: than housewives, but I'm glad to write to you about it.

First, I guess we ought to understand the part of Christmas this letter will not be about

It will not be about Santa Claus. There is a famous letter, written years ago to a girl named Virginia, about the jolly old gent. Probably you haven't heard or read it I suspect. Joey, that somehow that famous letter means a lot more to grownups than to 10 year olds like you.

At any rate, this letter is not about Santa Claus. It isn't about Christmas trees, either. Or about electric trains. Or dolls that do all sorts of things. Or home-baked, frosted cookies and popcorn balls.

This letter really isn't about almost all the things many folks nowadays think of when you mention Christmas.

That's because the real Christmas is so much more than all the trimmings that people hang on their celebrations

If you want to understand the real Christmas you have to go back in history to the time when there was no Christmas — only the promise of one. And only a few of the world's people knew of that promise.

It was a very important promise, tho. And you could truly depend on it, because the promise came from God! In fact, God kept on repeating that promise, in different words, many times. You will find it in the first part of the Bible, the part we call the Old Testament.

For instance, if you look up the book of the Prophet Isaiah, and turn to chapter 7, verse 14, you will find the promise put like this: "Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call His name Immanuel."

"Immanuel" is a Hebrew name meaning "God-With-Us," and here, Joey, you begin to get a peek at what Christmas really is. It is God coming to be with us.

If you remember this you'll understand better why the shepherds (who knew of this promise of God) became so excited when they got the word about the first Christmas. "They came with haste," the Bible says. They didn't even wait till morning!

You see, they had just heard the angel tell them: "Unto you is born a Savior, which is Christ, the Lord." "Christ" was another name used for the One who would fulfill God's "Immanuel" promise.

But maybe you're wondering why all this is so important? Why God would send His own Son into the world, to be born a little baby? And why the angel would tell the shepherds that this baby was their "Savior"?

It's worth wondering about, Joey, because here you get to the heart of it all, to the real meaning of Christmas. Maybe the best way to understand this is to think of still another name that God gave to that baby at Bethlehem.

This name God gave only a few weeks

Christmas Eve

Christmas is light.

It is the colored tinsel on the glowing tree delighting small children.

It is the bright star in the heavens showing the way to peace and good will for all men.

It is the light that shineth in darkness and on Christmas Eve we sometimes do seem to understand it.

Christmas is sound.

It is the excitement in children's voices as they see the tree and open their stockings on Christmas morning.

Truce in Viet Nam

The announcement of a 30 hour cease-fire by American and South Vietnamese troops is a hopeful sign not only for the brief Christmas holiday but for peace itself in Viet Nam.

The announcement came at almost the same time that Secretary General U Thant issued a plea to both sides to stop fighting and try to work out an agreement. Reportedly Thant had prepared the statement months ago but only now released it in the belief that both sides were more open to the suggestion of a cease-fire There may, hopefully, be behind the scenes activities going on along this line.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Dec. 28, 1865.

The Shawano Journal brings the following satisfactory account of the Indian Payment, by the Agent, Hon. M. M. Davis, of this City, witnessed and approved by Hon. Mr. Scott, a Commissioner appointed by the Government to examine into the Indian affairs generally.

"The semi-annual payment to the Menominee Indians was made on Monday last at the Council House in Keshena. The payment consisted of about $10,000, and the number of Indians paid was 1,515.

"The number of Indians is slowly, but surely, growing smaller at each payment, and the large number of black paint on their faces at the recent gathering of the Nation before the baby was born, and He gave it by way of Joseph, who would be the baby's foster-father. God came to Joseph in a dream and told him that Mary would have a baby boy. "Call His name Jesus," God instructed Joseph. "For He shall save His people from their sins."

Joey, the name "Jesus" means "One-Who-Saves." So this Immanuel (God-with-us) is Jesus (One-who-saves).

Of course, there is still another question. Who needs to be saved from their sins?

The Bible says everybody does, because everybody is a sinner. And I guess anybody who thinks the thing through will have to agree. To not be a sinner you'd have to be perfect. And who's anywhere near perfect?

But sin is a serious business. Sin is not measuring up to what God expects from us. Sin is breaking God's Law.

Now, Joey, you're old enough to know that when somebody breaks a law he deserves to be punished. The punishment for breaking God's Law is to be separated from God forever, to be lost. That's what every sinner has deserved.

Only God loves each of us far too much to want it to end that way. That's why He sent His Son to be our Immanuel, our Jesus, to save us from our sins.

Because the Baby Jesus was God, He was perfect. He did not sin. That's why He could save us, be our Savior. Only the very Son of God could do this.

And that's why we have Christmas. When God decides to do something, God does it!

The real meaning of Christmas isn't connected with candy, or a red-nosed "with a sleighful of toys," or even reindeer, or jingling bells, or a fat fellow "stockings hung by the chimney with care," for presents to be put into.

The real Christmas is just one thing, one present — God's Present. He gave it almost two thousand years ago. It means just as much today, for the people who will take God's Gift.

And God wants it for everybody. He gave it to the whole world! That's what the angel told the shepherds. "I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people!"

To ALL people, Joey!

That means you and me, too!

That means that everything God made happen there at Bethlehem, and everything He says in the Bible about it, is for us, too. That's why Christians love to read and reread the Christmas story.

Why don't you do that, now?

Or your whole family, when you're around the table?

Find Luke, chapter two, and begin at the first verse. Some of the words will be a little hard, but you'll get enough of their meaning. And when you get to the part where the angel says: "Unto you is born a Savior," be sure to remember that he really and truly means you!

Have a very merry Christmas. Enjoy all your presents. But most of all remember God's greatest Gift to you — His Son!

With all my love,
Uncle Hank

It is the zing of Christmas skates on the new ice and the bells echoing across the snow.

It is most of all laughter — of children, of friends, of the newly arrived and the welcome at the warm doorway.

Christmas is silence.

It is the hush of the church filled with hundreds.

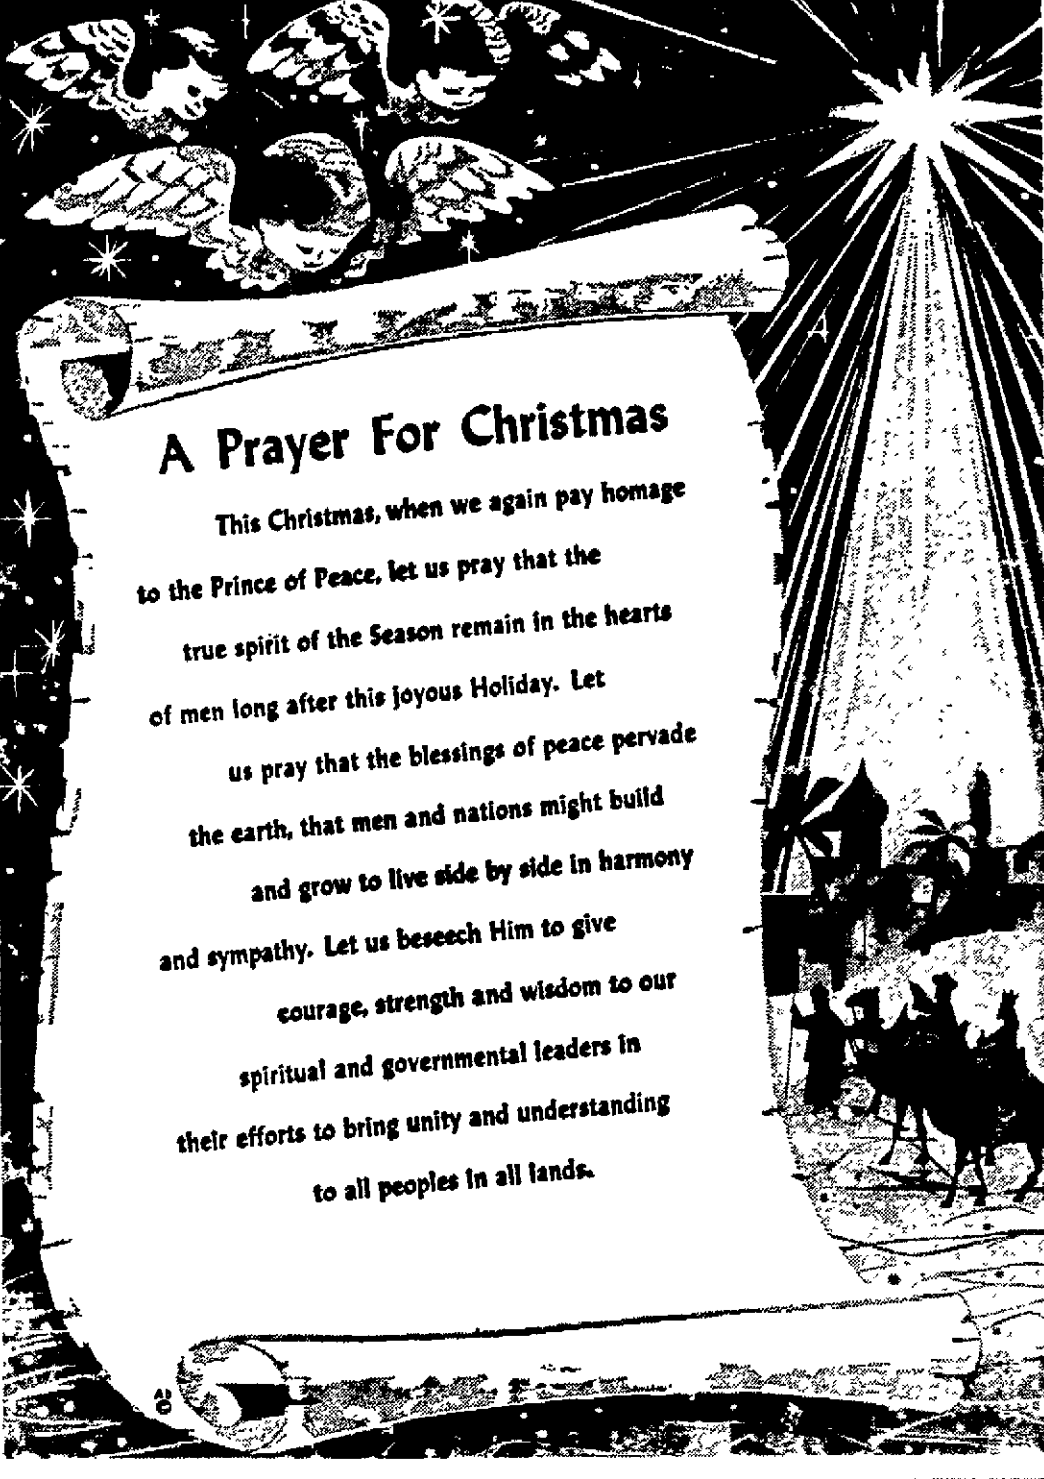

It is the moment of quiet meditation when we may be still and know that there is hope for all mankind in the Christmas story of the birth of a small baby thousands of miles away and years ago.

twelve hour Christmas truce might be regarded as a move toward a general cease-fire. It is the first one suggested at Christmas by the Communists and while they obviously intended to get propaganda mileage, they may be hurting enough to be considering a longer cease-fire.

Now it remains to be seen whether the Communists will abide by the truce terms. The Americans and South Vietnamese have orders to fire only in self-defense but we may be sure their guard is not down.

The truce is another example of the power of the Christian message in the world to a country largely non-Christian in the middle of a hideous war.

Do you know anyone who would not help another to trim his Christmas tree?

Taylor

"Man is an abyss," said Saint Augustine. The evidences are not new. The disciples of Jesus with one accord deserted Him, and Peter, being taxed as one of them, said, "I know not the man." Nevertheless, they came to know Him and were reborn by Him. Paul had never seen Jesus. But he found the Nazarenes with a spirit and a hope and left them with the beginning of a creed.

ALL ARE BORN AGAIN

The amazing new idea that man should be brother to man, that was the blazing star that dawned that first midnight — a beautiful light pointing to the long, hard, hopeful way to the better world we all want and pray for. And when we say, "Merry Christmas, Happy Christmas," you and I and all of us are born again in the spirit of those exalted words and of our Great Lord.

So let's look for a moment at our inner selves as we rejoice in the Saviour's birthday, and thus gain real hope through this.

Man, we know, is made of dust — plus intelligence and skill. We have read the seventh verse of the second chapter of Genesis.

We also know that the physical material in our minds and bodies disappears in a cycle of change every seven or eight years.

Of the small creature born on our birthday, and named our name, there is nothing left when we are eight years old. At 16 our mind and body has vanished and been renewed twice. At 60 we have developed and cast aside at least seven separate bodies.

But in the deepest part of our nature dwells that mysterious, feeble spark which we call the human soul.

It is always there. It stays. To think of this fact alone is to think of a miracle. To see it revealed within us is to see us in our most elevated state.

The Holy Lord on the Cross said: "I thirst." So do we — for spiritual development. And how silently, how silently the wonderful example is given.

Until we have studied His character and the effect of His teachings, no other study and no other wisdom is worthwhile.

REFUSES LAST DRINK

Think of that last scene of His earthly life. The brutality and ignorance of the mob that demanded the freedom of the criminal when they might have freed and heard the Saviour Himself. The poor women collecting coins to buy and give Jesus a drink that should stupefy Him and diminish the pain. The touching picture of the Holy Men putting the rim of the cup to His lips and refusing to drink, refusing to diminish the sorrow and horrible suffering that He had willingly brought upon Himself for the sake of others.

In all the history of the world there is no picture such as that on the hill. The patient, upturned face of the Saviour on the cross, the Sufferer destined to change the entire world. We see there, as Saint Paul saw in his day, a new era in the growing and traveling of the ages. For there is a difference between the age of Christian thought and all other ages.

Oh, yes, there are many wonderful scenes of heroism and self-sacrifice painted in history, painted in the blood of men and women willing to suffer for others. But there is nothing to compare with that one great picture and with the words spoken on the Cross: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

You and I are the children our Saviour never had. When we celebrate His birthday we celebrate our own. Merry Christmas, one and all.

Conservationists in Broader Sense Given Honors at State Meet

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A distinctive characteristic of the statewide recognition banquet sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation and associated groups in Madison recently was the selection for the honorary awards of citizens concerned with the basic conservative issues of the times.

Wyngaard

The popular concept of the "conservationist" unfortunately remains that of the hunter and fisherman, the sportsman whose reputation is based upon his ability to fill his creel and bring home game for the oven. These are good citizens. It is a matter of historical fact that the foundations of the conservation effort were financed out of the first fishing and hunting license fees. Many of these men, moreover, have a sympathy and an understanding of the basic natural resource issues. Yet to define the "conservationist" as the outdoors sportsman is about as relevant as to call the treader an agriculturalist.

The honors award banquet, intended to be continued in the future, chose among others the Green Bay school superintendent who has labored for the improvement of conservation education in the schools, a state university student fraternity, a pioneer soil conservationist and others whose works have been models for the emulation of others.

THE CHANGE

There is reason to hope that the formal organization of such an awards program is a mark of the maturity and increasing enlightenment of those thousands of men and women who are also conservationists and good citizens, although they do not carry a gun and take a fish only occasionally. A few years ago a thoughtful official of the state conservation administration, in a parenthetical observation in a department report, remarked that there are probably as many nature watchers as hunters, and perhaps as many men and women in the state who "shoot" wildlife with a camera as with the gun. Whatever the accuracy of the guess, it is evident to anyone who will see that the conservationist without a gun is rapidly increasing in numbers and enthusiasm, and there is reason to believe that he is also growing in public influence and force.

This reporter has observed the doings of the legislature at close range as long as anyone who has ever been assigned to the capitol press galleries. In the early years the debate in the field of conservation tended to concern fish and game size limits and seasons and related trivia that are now happily delegated to the expert resolutions of the professionals. Today in the legislature there is an increasing and encouraging tendency for deliberation of issues of scenic beauty, general public recreational resources, water as a source of life and economic prosperity for man as well as habitat for pike and trout, forest development, and the others which are the legitimate goals of the serious conservationist.

CHARLES SMITH

The principal award at the rally of conservationists was given to Charles F. Smith of Wausau, the dean of the Conservation Commission and a man who has served as a commissioner longer than any other in its history. Singling out the venerable Mr. Smith illustrated two useful points. First, the tendency for a man to grow and broaden his views as he assumes high responsibilities in public affairs. Second, the willingness of many men and women to accept unpaid positions in public life who would be utterly indifferent to proffers of full-time employment for compensation.

When Commissioner Smith took his chair two decades ago there were some reservations about his attitudes, understanding, and purpose. Today he is one of the most objective and broadminded leaders in the program, with the respect and affection of most of the professionals in the field. He has had a long and distinguished professional career as judge and lawyer. But there is probably no experience of his life that has given him greater satisfaction than his long service to the state conservation program and its mighty growth during his tenure.

Greatest of Artists Is the Culminator

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Listening to a concert of modern music that was as "far out" as one can get and still remain subliminal, I thought how the creative artist is perpetually torn between the opposite vices of imitation and originality.

Harris

In the desperate effort not to seem imitative, many new and young artists — whether writers, painters, or composers — swing to the other extreme, and feel that they must be "original" at all cost. But originality for its own sake is a deadly trap in the arts, and often a dead end.

Some years ago, in his book, "The Making of Music," Ralph Vaughan Williams, the composer, remarked: "The innovators are the small men who set the ball rolling. The big men come at the end of a period and sum it up."

Bach crowned his age and brought its style of music to perfection. Mozart built on Haydn, and Beethoven built on Mozart. Each of these geniuses brought his own kind of music to a supreme peak: none of them began a school or a sect of music writing.

When Bernard Shaw was being a superb music critic in London some 70 years ago, he made the same observation as did Williams:

"In the arts," Shaw wrote, "the highest success is to be the last of your race, not the first. Almost anybody can make a beginning; the difficulty is to make an end — to do what cannot be bettered."

Shakespeare did not write a single "original" play but one: "The Merry Wives of Windsor," generally conceded to be his worst. Not only did he steal (and improve) all his stories, but his technique borrowed heavily from Marlowe and the other Elizabethans. He was not an innovator, but a culminator — what he did could not be done better that way.

Dickens was perhaps the greatest storyteller in the English language, yet he introduced absolutely nothing new into the craft of fiction, simply taking the novel as he found it. Dozens of "original" writers followed Dickens, and all have been lost in obscurity.

The same is true, as Shaw pointed out, for Praxiteles in sculpture, Raphael in painting, Moliere in playwrighting — these men were not concerned with originality in the ordinary sense of the word, for they knew intuitively that the only real originality is that which (as the word implies) consists in returning, again and again, to the origins of man's traditions.

Two Football Games Slated For Christmas

BY TV SCOUT
3 — Conclusion — Channels 2-12 — Unless you're a sports fan, television doesn't offer too much variety on Christmas Day. First of the big football games is the 28th annual Blue and Gray Classic at Crumpton Bowl, Montgomery, Ala. Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue coaches the star players from the North on the Blue squad; Navy's Bill Elias is the coach for the Southern Gray team.

3:30 — Conclusion — Channels 11-6-9 — The North-South All-Star Shrine Game in Miami's Orange Bowl has Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian as coach of the boys from above the Mason-Dixon line. Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa will do similar chores for the southern team. Sportscaster is Chris Schenkel.

6:30-7:30 — Channels 2-7-12 — The entire production of The Jackie Gleason Show is devoted to a Christmas theme. Except for seasonal music and dancing, all is in pantomime. This one is especially recommended for the youngsters.

7-7:30 — Channels 11-6 — The King Family is still busily celebrating the rewards of the season. Happiest of the whole clan are the children who are itemizing their gifts in songs like, "Tell Us What You Got."

7:30-8 — Channels 4-5-7 — "Survival of the Fittest" on Get Smart has some well-rounded laughs. Pretty Karen Steele Steele, of all people, plays the world's strongest counterspy. She and harem girls Tania Leoni and Patti Gilbert capture a Middle Eastern prince and throw him into steamy health club. Object here is to make him sweat off poundage so when his country pays him his annual weight in gold he'll end up a pauper. (Color)

7:30-8:30 — Channels 2-12 — Secret Agent's hero, Patrick McGoonan, is at his nimble best using himself as bait to trap a counterspy. Unfortunately, the script isn't quite as intriguing.

8-8:30 — Channels 11-6-9 — If you like children in great abundance you'll enjoy The Lawrence Welk Show, which even outdoes the King Family. Some 70 tykes join the Champagne Music Makers for their annual Christmas celebration. (Color)

8-10:15 — Channels 4-5 — Saturday Night at the Movies offers a mildly amusing comedy, "Here Comes the Groom." It has to do with Bing Crosby, an American newspaperman in Paris, who discovers Anna Maria Alberghe, a pretty little waif.

8:30-9:30 — Channels 11-6-9 — Bing Crosby, for the fourth time, is host of The Hollywood Palace. He, of course, sings "White Christmas," and introduces cheerful folks like Dorothy Collins, Bob Crane and his Hogan's Heroes cronies, Binko the Clown, Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians, and Landon's Midgets. Road Design Small Factor in Accidents

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Highway design is a factor in less than one per cent of all fatal accident sites in New Jersey, the State Highway Department says.

The department said that starting in 1964, its safety engineers visited the scene of every automobile death on the state highway system. They ruled out highway design as a factor in more than 99 per cent of the 700 sites checked.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

BACHELORS ARE HAPPIER THAN SPINSTERS! TRUE OR FALSE?
False. Unmarried women are generally happier than single men, according to a number of studies. Recently, a team of researchers interviewed married and unmarried men and women in San Francisco over a two-year period. They found little support for the popular notion of the carefree young blade. The single men turned out to be anything but gay. They had more neurotic symptoms and tended to be more antisocial than were the unmarried women. Why? Have you some thoughts on this to share with us?

..Is "moonlighting" increasing?
Yes.....No.....

Yes, apparently it is. One survey showed that over five per cent of all employed people held down more than one job.

Merry Christmas!

Jingo Bells, Jingo Bells, Jingo-Goes All the Way

BY JINGO

'Twas the night before Christmas and all through the town Not a TV was stirring, which caused a large frown On the brow of the glum television exec, Who was heard to exclaim on the ratings, "Oh heck, Ev-ry year at this time a man full of jelly Removes all viewers front of the telly. The people would much rather sit back and await A fat man with some presents than watch channel eight." He worried and wondered and finally surmised, "I will run through the streets (won't the folks be surprised);

I will tell them they're missing a wonderful treat That is offered to them in a living room seat." He burst from his office and caused such a clatter That people looked out to see what was the matter. And what to their wondering eyes should appear But a skinny executive sipping on beer.

"On U.N.C.L.E., on Smothers, on Convoys and Gleason, To not watch your sets is one step short of treason. On Huntley, on Brinkley and Walter Cronkite, Turn on your TV for tonight is the night

That Carson and Griffin take time out to pause- For interviews with our old friend, Santa Claus. If people don't watch old St. Nick on TV He won't come with presents for you and for me."

His bid being made, he sat down satisfied, So filled with emotion at this time he cried. "I've offered a service," he shouted with glee; "I've told them of programs available free.

If I ever do anything else that I should, Tonight I have struck a strong blow for the good." While visions of programming danced in his head He thought, "Now it's all right. I'll go home and to bed." But just as he readied himself for to go His ego was handled a shattering blow. He took just one step when a voice told him "Stop." There, to his horror, stood a burly cop. For while shouting and pleading his fav-rite niece Had taken the option to call the police. He wasn't a hero, but rather a goat, And there with the cop was a man in white coat. He shouted and kicked and caused such a racket As they fastened him in a new straight-jacket. And he could be heard as they drove out of sight, "May your TV break down on your favorite night."

Humphrey to Run For President in '72, Truman Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said Thursday that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will be the Democratic presidential nominee in 1972. "And that's not a prediction," said Truman. "That's a fact." He commented while taking his usual morning walk, accompanied by reporters. Truman and his wife are here to spend Christmas with their daughter, son-in-law and three grandchildren, the Clifton Daniels family. Asked about presidential prospects of the senatorial Kennedy brothers, Robert of New York and Edward of Massachusetts, Truman replied that either one "has the right to try for it."

Kentucky Farm Crops Bring Record Income
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky farmers last year sold their products for $742,713,000, a record high by about $100 million, the University of Kentucky cooperative extension service says. Tobacco accounted for 46.9 per cent of the total.

Leukemia in Elderly Can be Kept in Bounds

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My father is 70 and was discharged from the hospital with lymphatic leukemia. The doctor says it is just a mild case.

Could you relieve my worry by giving me some information about this disease? What is a mild case? What causes this? Improper diet, not enough rest, etc.—J.H.G.

beginning to be able to postpone its ravages for a time.

But when it occurs in an older person, it is not likely to be in

Dr. Molner

As you doubtless know, lymphatic leukemia, when it occurs in children, is usually acute, and is an extremely dangerous disease. Why should I mince words? It is a terrible disease because we do not know of any way to cure it, and we are only the acute form. Rather, it more likely will be in the chronic type. While I dislike saying that leukemia is ever "mild," I still can assure you that chronic lymphatic leukemia in an older person is quite different from the acute form which is so savagely rapid in a child.

For the older person with chronic leukemia, medication and when indicated the use of X-ray can keep the disease within bounds for years.

Diet and the amount of rest have nothing to do with the disorder, fundamentally. Naturally, with this, as with any number of other chronic ailments, an ordinary, healthful diet and adequate rest keep up the patient's strength. That's true for everybody—with or without a chronic disease. No fancy diet does any good. Rest, beyond the normal amount each night to restore one's energy, isn't required.

At 70, practically all of us have some sort of chronic ailment that needs to be cared for. We can't live forever. Just regard this chronic leukemia in that sense.

The cause of it? We do not know.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss "Fifth disease." It seems to be a new disease named by a doctor in Omaha. How did he arrive at such a name?—Mrs. E.D.

I don't believe it is a "new disease," but rather one which only recently has been recognized as a separate entity.

It is one of a group of diseases with symptoms in common: A rash and fever. My understanding is that its name came from the fact that four such diseases already were known:

- 1—Scarlet fever. (And scarlatina, which is a milder form.)
- 2—Regular measles (rubeola).
- 3—German measles, also known as rubella, or "three-day measles," a mild disease except that it causes frequent and often very serious defects in the baby if the mother gets the disease in the first, second or third month of pregnancy.
- 4—Roseola infantum, which can be more severe than measles, with temperatures up to 102 to 105.
- 5—This is the new one: "Fifth disease." It is known also as "Hungarian measles." The symptoms are much the same: Rash and fever. The one difference is that "Fifth disease" appears to have a tendency to recur, whereas the others don't. One attack of the others confers immunity.

It is suspected that "Fifth disease" is the explanation of why some people think they have had measles or German measles several times. Actually, they probably had "Fifth disease." Or so we suspect.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 20 and have an undescended testicle.

What could or should be done about it?—J.M.

It is best to correct this somewhat sooner (early teens) but often it can be done later on. Consult a urologist who can determine whether surgical repair is possible.

"Tips On How To Stop Smoking," by Dr. Molner, will help you give up the habit. To receive a copy of the booklet, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Post-Crescent, enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Tale for Grandchildren

Christmas of Long Ago Time for Wild Parties

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It was Christmas eve in the suburbs. "Tell us a story, Gramps," asked one of the little tots.

"Now, I told you one last night," said Gramps. "Get your grandmother to tell you one."

"Okay," said one of the tots.

"Well, all right," said Grandma.

"Would you like to hear an old-fashioned Christmas story?"

"Oh, yes, Goody goody!"

"Well, I'll tell you how they used to celebrate at the office in the old days before your grandfather retired," said Grandma.

"Somebody put gin in the water cooler early in the morning of Christmas Eve, but the party usually didn't get going until they all came back after a three-hour lunch."

"Quite lively."

"Then, I'll tell you, it sometimes got quite lively."

"The men gathered around the office Christmas tree and sang carols. Then they sang old war songs, and started drinking out of bottles."

"After that, somebody hunted up a bit of mistletoe, and then all the office wolves began chasing all the pretty girls around the room."

"How did wolves get invited to the party, Grandma?" asked one of the tots.

"Oh, all the offices had wolves in those days, didn't they?" replied Grandma, looking at Grandpa. Grandpa cleared his throat and looked the other way.

"Wanted to Slay."

"By guilting time," continued Grandma, "nobody wanted to leave. Some men were leaning out the window whistling at girls on the street below. Others were telling the boss to go fly a kite. And still others were leaping from desk to desk like goats."

"Didn't they ever fall and hurt themselves?" inquired one of the tots.

"Well, your Grandpa fell one year and didn't get off his crutches until Easter."

"That's not true," broke in Grandpa. "I marched in the St. Pat's Day parade that year."

"In any case," resumed

Grandma, "many of the men didn't get home until after Santa Claus had come and gone. I remember one year when you didn't arrive until 3 a.m., and then you attacked our Christmas tree. You thought it was a mugger."

Choking Tree

"When I came downstairs you had it on the floor and were trying to choke it. Remember?"

"I tripped on the rug, and just happened to knock the tree down," said Grandpa lamely.

"Those old-fashioned Christmas parties don't sound like fun, Grandma," said one of the tots.

"They sound awful. Do they have office parties like that any more?"

"Well, not so many since Grandpa retired," answered Grandma.

After Grandma and Grandpa had tucked them into bed, kissed them and left, one of the tots said:

"Do you think that was a true story Grandma told us?"

"I don't know," said the other tot. "That's the trouble with grownups — you never know when to believe them."

Priest Finds Analogy Between Holy Family, Modern Marriage

BY FRANCIS X. MURPHY, C. S.S.R. (C) 1965, Newsday, Inc.

ROME — Writing in the shadow of Christmas, a medieval commentator would have had no difficulty in comparing the four sessions of Vatican Council II to the four weeks of Advent. If he had been dealing with the council's doctrine on marriage and the family, he would have found it most natural to refer to the Holy Family of Jesus, Mary and Joseph as the model for Christian family life. And he would have had no hesitation about comparing the complexities experienced by Joseph and Mary, as recorded in the gospel story, to the difficulties met with in modern marriage.

It is actually in the light of the Christmas story that Christianity assumes its unique character in dealing with the world, and particularly with marriage. For anyone who believes that the child born of Mary in Bethlehem was actually the Son of God as well as the son of man, must take a stand on human problems that will be different from the position of the man who has not that belief. If the Son of God actually entered the world as a human being, and lived and died here, then the whole course of civilization has been changed, and man's destiny has taken on a set of values and directives that are far beyond the estimates and conclusions of the secular-minded philosopher and sociologist.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Father Murphy is an American priest who has been attached to the Vatican for more than 15 years. He is professor of moral theology at the Lateran University in Rome, author of "John XXIII, the Story of the Pope." Because of his knowledge of the intricate subjects, he has been appointed a "Peritus" to the Ecumenical Council, that is, an official expert of theology to be consulted by the prelates attending the Council.

Christian Life Model

It is with this truth that the Vatican Council II came to grips in a very factual fashion. Hitherto Christian teachers tended to hold up the Holy Family as a model of Christian life, but in an unreal and idealistic manner. Actually this was not in accord with the Gospel narrative. For though Joseph is referred to as a just man, he is portrayed as a perplexed husband, not knowing which way to turn under the pressure of suspicion.

And while his doubt is finally resolved by a vision in a dream, his life and economic situation is not made any easier. This is indicated by his conforming with the Roman law of the census, and the birth of the child in a cattle shelter in Bethlehem. Later, he appears searching for the child in Jerusalem, where Jesus had remained behind without informing his parents.

These realistic details give credence to the Gospel story, despite its supernatural surroundings. Or better, they emphasize the pertinence of the other worldly elements in the Christian message. And it is a similar blend of vital facts and Christian reflection that now characterizes the church's approach to conjugal love and marriage.

Essential Factors

The council doctrine harmonizes two essential factors in its dealing with marriage. It recognizes that matrimony is a state of life that two responsible individuals enter freely, with the intention of fulfilling a natural longing for love that will enable them to achieve a mutual maturity in perfecting their individual personalities. Ordinarily this love leads to the begetting and education of offspring that will be the crown and extension of their love. But it brings with it obligations of fidelity and mutual assistance whose exercise is put to the test frequently by the economic and social circumstances in which the couple find themselves.

It is here that the council's teaching has taken on a realistic note. While the Christian believes explicitly in God's providence, he also knows that when the Creator equipped man with intelligence and free will, He did so in order that man should work out his own destiny responsibly. This holds most particularly in regard to his exercise of prudence and intelligence in begetting new life, and providing his offspring with the loving family atmosphere and education that will enable him to grow to maturity in exercising his prerogatives as a responsible human being.

No Easy Answer

The council did not solve one of the fundamental problems perplexing the consciences of most Christians. It did not discuss individual means for achieving family limitation while exercising the rights of conjugal love. But it did indicate that this is a problem to which there is no easy answer at present.

What it did emphasize is the fact that human life is actually greater than the sum of its visible parts. For there is a supernatural element in man's destiny that removes him from the humdrum everydayness of mortal existence.

The church's pause before the question of means in regulating family limitation is painful; but for the moment, at least, it insists upon the burden placed on the individual consciences of the married partners who have to weigh other worldly values along with their more immediate, secular objectives. While this is an area in which the church has an obvious obligation to assist its members and all mankind, by harmonizing worldly and supernatural objectives, the council realized that an insistence on a purely spiritual solution in the form of abstinence, such as the church tended to impose hitherto, was not facing the reality of family life in the here and now.

Changed Circumstances

The circumstances in which modern man lives have changed radically; and this change is affecting man in all the various cultural situations in which he finds himself today. Hence the application of supernatural values to contemporary life must likewise be adapted to the new conditions of human existence. Though greatly inconvenient for the current generation, it is probably just as well that the church is achieving this change slowly, and not trying to force a solution whose applicability may easily be rendered invalid in a few years time.

The dramatic attempt of a small group of churchmen during the last two weeks of the council to force the issue, and return the church to an intransigent stand against artificial birth control methods merely highlighted the fact that the church is in the midst of a perplexing situation with change on the horizon.

It might not be impertinent to recall the fact that Mary and Joseph in accepting the burden of establishing the Holy Family, and thus participating in the first Christmas, were definitely the instruments of a revolutionary change in values in which

THE ADORATION OF THE MAGI

"And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh." St. Matthew 2:11

This short version of the story of the three kings from the East who worshipped at the manger has been the source of many great paintings. Peter Paul Rubens produced at least six paintings of the scene, including one of his greatest canvases. There are five paintings of Veronese. More than 60 recognized great masters have given us a vivid portrayal of that magnificent scene; the wealth and majesty of the kings who humbly worshipped the newborn King.

Uncertainties May Call for Fiscal Resolve

Big Federal Budget Might Bring Demand For Higher Taxes

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The prospect for Christmas is all merry—the most prosperity ever for the most people. But the outlook for New Year's Day is that the nation may have to make some fksome resolutions.

Problems and uncertainties are piling up almost as fast as all the good news about how well most things are going right now.

The federal budget, due shortly, is a big one—with most attention in the business world right now centered on the chance of new or higher taxes. A rising U.S. Treasury deficit may call for some new fiscal resolutions.

Market Worried
The stock market is enjoying huge volume of trading—but worrying about the rise in speculative buying, and trying to digest the meaning of the record number of shares being sold short by those who presumably think prices will drop.

Profits were never higher—but the talk of a squeeze on profit margins is making many company heads wonder if they can find new ways next year to cut costs.

Business spending plans for next year have swelled fast in recent weeks—but higher interest rates, maybe higher taxes, and the very age of the economic upswing itself is causing many to worry. Business executives want to swing along with the boom, but they don't want to repeat the big expansion spree of the late 1950s that left them with idle capacity.

Overseas Operations
Companies with overseas enterprises, or planning to set up some, are hoping to spend more next year—but are wondering how to live with the new government guidelines on investing fewer dollars abroad.

The deficit in the U.S. balance of payments has been cut this year below last year's $3 billion in the red—but the pressures are rising again. And the new year could bring new resolutions for turning the tide of dollars back to U.S. shores.

Personal Debt

Personal income is at a record high with Americans getting more, spending more, saving more than ever—but the fly in that ointment is called inflation. A big jump in the cost of living is far from a sure thing—but a continuing rise in many prices and fees is considered likely.

Personal debt also is rising, with more Americans confident their future incomes can cover

Got $207.13 in Cash? Then You're Average

BY SYLVIA PORTER

As you go through the final hours of Christmas shopping, do you, as an individual, have $187.62 in folding money plus $19.51 in change—a total of $207.13 in cash? Do you, as a family of four, have $826.52 in a cash pool? Do you have more paper money today in $100 bills than in $10's and is a full one-third of your cash reserve in $20 bills?

Porter

Of course, you don't have any of these sums, for these are the "average" shares that we, as individuals or families, have of the $40.4 billion of cash in circulation today. If you ever hit an "average," you're a statistical accident.

All-Time Peak
Nevertheless, these startling figures underline the fact that despite the phenomenal growth in credit cards and "checkbook money," old-fashioned cash is also in a great boom. The nation's supply of no-interest cash has reached an all-time peak, has jumped $8.4 billion or 26 per cent just since 1960.

Even more provocative than the cash upsurge itself, is the trend toward the big $100 denomination.

In the past four years the value of money in $100 bills has increased 30.3 per cent, faster than any other denomination. Today there are 78 million $100 bills in circulation. The value of all $100 bills in circulation is nearly $200 billion larger than the value of $10 bills—a sharp reversal of the traditional ratio between $10s and $100s. About repayment of loans on a monthly basis—but the problem some see is that the cost of borrowing is going up. And a further threat is that if serious inflation really did come the monetary authorities might move to make credit scarce instead of fairly abundant as now.

And a big uncertainty right now is how much the war in Viet Nam may cost—and what that might do to everything from taxes, federal spending on civilian programs, production of civilian goods, and the mix of civilian and military in the employment outlook (will industry lose manpower to the military?).

Still, it's a very merry Christmas. And the new year's problems doubtless can be taken in stride—as they usually have been in the past.

one-fifth of our dollars now come in the form of $100 bills. As for $20 bills, the total of these in circulation has risen more than $2.3 billion since 1961 to $12.9 billion—a dollar increase larger than that of all lower denominations put together.

More Deal in Cash

What are the major forces behind this seemingly paradoxical boom in cash?

A first factor is the surge in numbers of teenagers and elderly citizens. Since 1960 the 15-19 age group alone has soared by 3.5 million, more than three times the rate of overall population growth; our elderly population's growth rate is at a record, too. Both groups tend to deal in cash, to turn relatively small paychecks into currency as soon as they get the checks.

A second factor is the travel spurge, particularly overseas. This year an estimated 2.5 million Americans will have traveled overseas, more than double the total who went overseas in 1955. Their spending also has more than doubled to some $3.3 billion this year. While many carry travelers' checks, many carry instantly convertible cash—in large denominations—as well. The same goes for travel within the U. S., for check cashing still is fairly hard when you're far from home.

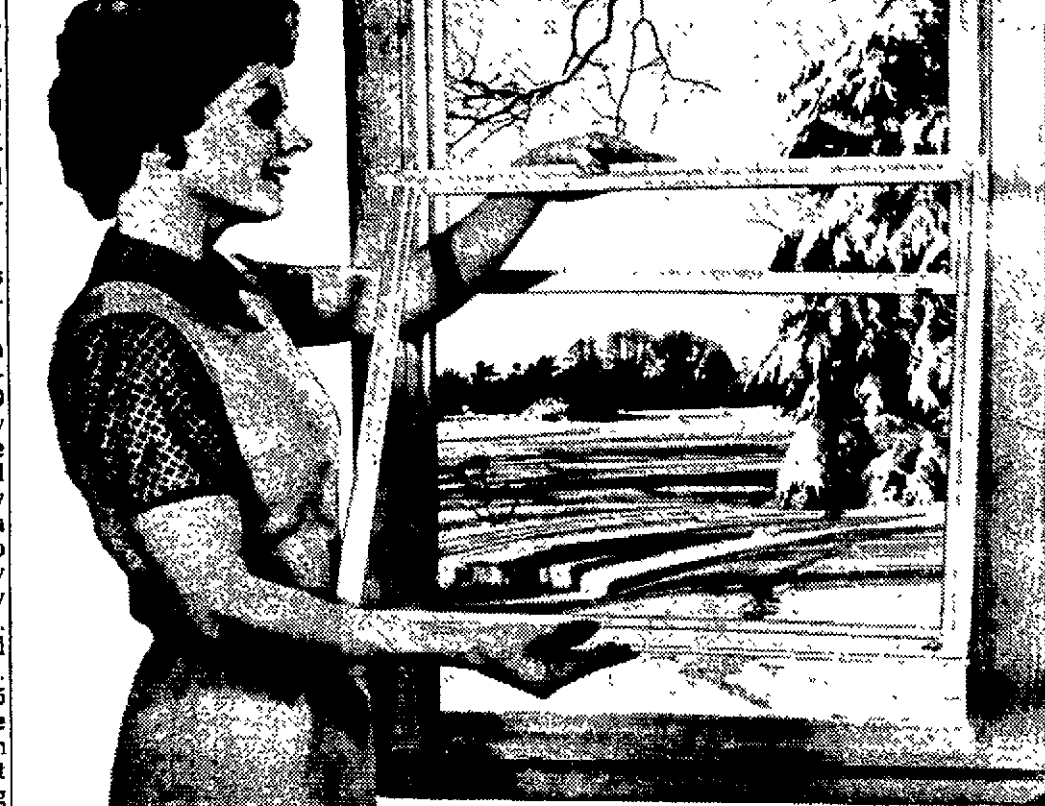

A third factor is hoarding. As the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond notes in a recent study, it's possible that "American currency is playing the role traditionally played by gold as a medium of hoarding in many parts of the world"—particularly in new countries which respect the U. S. dollar far more than their own new currencies.

Used in Tax Evasion
A fourth could be the recent Internal Revenue Service crack-down on tax evasion by gamblers plus the IRS's new computer checking of bank records. Both have heightened dealing in cash as a technique of tax evasion.

Other forces probably are the population shift from country to city and suburb, because the cost of living is significantly higher in metropolitan areas than on the farm; and the strong trend toward eating out, because millions of us still use cash instead of credit cards when we pay restaurant bills. Then, of course, there is the single fact that our incomes are greater than ever before.

Incidentally, even when you subtract the $3.5 billion in cash now held in bank vaults, the $400 million which has "disappeared" from circulation (lost or destroyed), the billions held by businesses and governments, you, the average individual, still should have nearly $100 in cash on hand right now. How "unaverage" are you?
